DOG MASCOTS RESCUED BY LADDER FROM FIRE

Follow Firemen Into Burning Dwelling in Maplewood and Stairs Burn Behind Them.

Fire of unknown origin, discovered at 3 a. m., Wednesday on the second floor of the frame dwelling of Harris Wolf, 7277 Old Manchester avenue, did $1000 damage. It was at first supposed that Harris, his wife and four children were in the house, but when neighbors broke in they found that the Harrises were away.

Maplewood firemen and engine company No. 52 from St. Louis went to the fire and confined the flames to the upper part of the dwelling. Tige, the bull terrier mascot of the Maplewood firemen, and Lady, the hound mascot of the 52's followed the firemen to the second floor and the burning of the stairway prevented their return to the ground. Their howls were heard by the firemen, who rescued them by putting a ladder up to a window.

GROUND IS BROKEN FOR PANAMA-PACIFIC FAIR

First Exhibit Building Is on Its Way — Chinese Celebrate "American" New Year.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 1.—Ground breaking for Machinery Hall, the first exhibit building to be erected for the Panama-Pacific Exposition, was the distinguishing feature of New Year's day in San Francisco. The program includes songs by school children and hydroaeroplane flying on the bay and over the exposition site, followed by a reception.

The year's history-making in China will be marked by the observation of the new year of the Gregorian Calendar in the local China town, this being the first "American" new year celebration in which the Orientals have joined. Chinatown was festooned with bunting and the streets were filled with celebrants, wearing Oriental garb, and tooting happily on five-cent horns.

REFEREE QUITS IN SUIT IN CIRCUIT COURT 24 YEARS

J. A. Wright After Eight Years in Case Says Acquired Bias Disqualifies Him.

TESTIMONY 4500 PAGES

Litigation Started by Henry O'Hara Against Partners in the Lumber Business.

The resignation of Joseph A. Wright as referee in the suit of Mrs. Eliza P. O'Hara of 4206 Lindell boulevard against Curtis M. Jennings and the estate of Sarpy Berthold, partners of her husband, Henry O'Hara, in the lumber business, is the latest development in a case which has been awaiting disposition in the Circuit Court 24 years.

Wright announced his resignation Wednesday, giving as his reason that he had acquired a feeling of bias and prejudice in the case, which would disqualify him from serving. He further made the plea of insufficient time to consider properly the voluminous transcripts, papers and other documents in the record.

Suit Filed in 1889.

Although the suit was filed in 1889 it never has got any further than the taking of testimony before a referee, who was appointed by the Court to try the issues and report his recommendations. Wright became referee eight years ago, succeeding Arba N. Crane, who died.

Crane was made referee about a year after the litigation began and heard the testimony. This fills 4500 typewritten pages and was dragged along for about two years. By agreement Crane was paid $12,000 by the principals for his work. He died before filing a report and Wright, on succeeding him, was authorized to read the testimony taken before his successor and base his conclusions on it.

Pioneer in Business.

Henry O'Hara, who was a pioneer in putting yellow pine lumber on the market, was plaintiff in the suit originally and after his death his widow, as executrix of his estate became plaintiff. Given Campbell was her attorney. He died and the law firm of Fordyce, Holliday and White and Fred Armstrong Jr. have succeeded him.

One of the defendants, Sarpy Berthold, also died, and his widow, Anna Caroline Berthold, as executrix, is now co-defendant with Jennings.

O'Hara, Berthold and Jennings were partners in the lumber business, and after O'Hara retired from the firm he made a claim that he was entitled to about $150,000 in profits of the business and demanded an accounting. According to an attorney in the case, if it is found that this amount is due on an accounting, the judgment also would include interest dating from the time the demand for the accounting was made. The interest would exceed the principal and make the judgment for more than $250,000, the attorney said.

Desires to End Case.

The Berthold & Jennings Lumber Co. has since incorporated, with offices in the Wright Building. It is not concerned in the suit. Since the death of Eugene Tittmann, one of the attorneys for the defense, his partner, E. C. Kehr, has been looking after the interests of the defense.

Attorney Thomas W. White of Fordyce, Holliday & White, when seen by a Post-Dispatch reporter Wednesday, was reluctant to discuss the case. He said he supposed the next step would be to ask the Court to appoint another referee, as it is desired to bring the litigation to an end. Referee Wright, it was stated, had not filed a report in the case.

WOMAN HURT IN ALTON AUTO RACE SMASH-UP DIES

Miss Amelia Rotsch, School Teacher, Succumbs to Concussion of Brain.

DRIVER OF ONE CAR HELD

John McInerney Released on Recognizance to Appear at Inquest.

Miss Amelia Rotsch, an Alton school teacher, died at 10 p. m. Tuesday from injuries received in an automobile accident in which she and six others were hurt near Alton Monday afternoon.

On learning of Miss Rotsch's death, Justice Lessner at midnight issued a manslaughter warrant for John McInerney, a Granite City saloon keeper, whose machine struck the one in which Miss Rotsch was riding.

McInerney was released on his own recognizance to appear at the inquest Wednesday afternoon.

Maurice Meehan whose skull was fractured when the automobiles collided, is still unconscious at St. Joseph's Hospital in Alton.

Miss Rotsch was being driven home by E. M. Clark, superintendent of the Standard Oil plant at Wood River when Clark's machine was struck by one driven by McInerney. With McInerney in his machine were four men. All the occupants of both cars were injured.

It was not at first thought that Miss Rotsch was seriously hurt. She alighted on her head and concussion of the brain is believed to have caused her death.

HOMELESS MAN DIES AT FOUR COURTS LODGING

John Daley Dead on Newspaper Bed When Called for Coffee and Rolls.

When the homeless men sleeping on the floor of the new Municipal Lodging House in the basement of the Four Courts Building were called New Year's morning to get their coffee and rolls for breakfast, one of them, supposed to be John Daley did not answer. John Fleming, who had slept next to him, tried to arouse him and discovered that he was dead. A newspaper spread on the floor had been his deathbed.

Fleming says that shortly after Daley lay down at 11 o'clock Tuesday night he sat up and complained of pain in his heart. Fleming soon fell asleep.

Daley, who was about 45 years old, was the first man to die at the new Municipal Lodging House. He was partly identified by employment application slips found in his pockets. They showed that he had been sent to the home of Mrs. Sinclair, 4360 Delmar boulevard, to obtain employment.

Besides the slips in his pockets Daley had 50 cents and a pencil. He is described as 5 feet 7 inches tall, weighed 175 pounds and wore a dark gray coat, black vest and trousers and a derby hat. Other lodgers said they had heard him speak of a brother in St. Louis, but never heard him mention the brother's address.

BODY OF RECLUSE FOUND FROZEN IN PIASA CREEK

Search for Missing Man Had Been Conducted Since Dec. 22.

The body of Ferdinand Hueninger, 87 years old, was found frozen in the ice in Piasa Creek, Jersey County, Ill., Wednesday morning, by Albert and George Nagel of Delhi, Ill., while hunting. They turned the body over to the Coroner of Jersey County.

Hueninger disappeared from his home near Delhi, Ill., Dec. 22, and since then searching parties have been looking for him. He lived alone in a shanty half a mile from the farm of his daughter, Mrs. Herman Kuenlen, who provided him with food.

Five years ago he divided his property among his children and since then led the life of a recluse. His son, Henry Hueninger of Bunker Hill, Ill., had charge of the search.

BEATS, ROBS FAMILY'S BENEFACTOR LEAVES OLD MAN NEARLY DEAD

Tells Story His Daughter Denies

Warren Fry Admits He Struck Howard Ballard, Who Often Paid Rent for His Home.

MRS. FRY NURSES VICTIM

Daughter Says Her Father's Tale of Attack, Which He Says He Avenged, Is Untrue.

Warren Fry, 35 years old, of 1041 South Vandeventer avenue, admitted to the police Wednesday that it was he who attacked Howard Ballard, 65 years old, beating him with a piece of gaspipe, knocking out one of his eyes and severing one of his ears.

Fry, according to the police report, said that he went to Ballard's room at 3138 Chouteau avenue Monday night and beat him because Ballard had attacked Fry's 14-year-old daughter, Roberta. Ballard and the girl both deny this.

After he had beaten Ballard into insensibility, Fry, according to his statement, as quoted by the police, robbed Ballard of $150. The robbery, he says, was an afterthought, and his original purpose in going to Ballard's room was to avenge his daughter.

Fry was arrested Tuesday night after an informant, whose name the police refused to divulge, told the police he had been seen going to Ballard's room with a bucket of beer a short time before the assault.

Mrs. Fry Cares for Wounded Man.

Mrs. Fry Wednesday went to the city hospital to aid in caring for Ballard. She and Roberta denied that Ballard had ever in any way offered an affront to the girl, and said that Ballard had been a benefactor of their family, and acted as Santa Claus for the children.

Mrs. Fry's sister, Mrs. Thomas Kellorn, who, with her two children, shares the Fry home, told a Post-Dispatch reporter that Ballard had been a friend to the Fry family for 12 years.

Christmas day, she said, Ballard visited the Fry home and gave presents to the children. After distributing the gifts he took a roll of bills from his pocket and took from it a $5 bill which he handed to Fry, Mrs. Kellorn said.

Often Paid Family's Rent.

Ballard, she said, had often paid the family's rent and had the sympathy and friendship of Mrs. Fry in his present trouble. She said Mrs. Fry would aid in prosecuting her husband for assaulting Ballard.

At the city hospital Wednesday Mrs. Fry sat at Ballard's bedside. In addition to the injury to his eye and ear his skull is fractured and the hospital physicians say he has little chance for recovery.

Ballard regained consciousness Wednesday. He told a Post-Dispatch reporter that there was no truth in the statement that he had attacked Roberta Fry.

"I love her as if she were my own child," he said. "I bought dresses for her and her sister. In fact, I have been a guardian angel to the Fry family.

"Monday night Fry came to my room. He told me he had been staying away from home and was afraid to go back and that he needed money. At his suggestion I went out and got a can of beer. After we drank it he said he would buy some.

"He went out and returned a few minutes later. He set the can on the table and without saying a word he struck me with a piece of gaspipe. He had been holding his right hand behind his back to conceal the pipe.

Fry Knew He Carried Money.

"When I regained consciousness my money was gone. I think I had about $200 in my pocket. Fry knew that I always carried my savings with me. I know of no motive except robbery which could have caused him to attack me."

Fry told the police, they say, that while on his way to Ballard's room Monday night, he picked up the piece of gaspipe at a new building on Shenandoah avenue, near Grand avenue. He said he accused Ballard of attacking Roberta, and then beat him with the gaspipe. Ballard denies that Fry even mentioned Roberta's name before the attack. When Fry was arrested he had $136.14 in his pocket. He said he had spent $15 for clothing, and had given $11 to his wife.

Two years ago the Fry family gained publicity through a pathetic letter written to Santa Claus, in care of the Post-Dispatch, by Roberta and her younger sister, Mabel. They begged that Santa Claus restore to them their 4-year-old sister, Lorena, who had been adopted by Mrs. O. J. Heimburger of 4315 Flad avenue.

After this letter Mrs. Fry attempted through the courts to obtain possession of the child, but the legal adoption papers held by the Heinburgers made it impossible for her to do so.

Fry Sticks to Story.

Fry at noon Wednesday repeated his statement to a Post-Dispatch reporter. He said the attack on his daughter, Roberta, occurred about a month ago while Roberta was visiting Ballard in his room in company with Eva Miles, 13 years old, who, he says, lives near Boyle and Vandeventer avenues ... ...ered that the Mil... ... to tell what she ... attack.

BABY 1913 COMES IN TO THE RATTLE OF TIN SKILLETS

New Noise Maker Features the Din With Which the New Year Is Welcomed.

CROWDS SHOUT AND SING

Every Cafe Table Taken in Advance by Revelers Who Keep the Corks Popping.

Baby No. 1913, using a tin skillet for a rattle, made so much racket in the first hour of his clamorous little life that nobody in St. Louis could sleep.

Not that there were very many who wanted to sleep. Most persons knew from experience the noise making proclivities of babies of the New Year family, and they decided to sit up and help the 1913th of the oldest line in the world wake the echoes with noise. And they gave him valiant aid.

Instead of sitting in secluded places and singing "The Heart Bowed Down," they turned their New Year's music to the discord of "The Valve Tied Down," and did their collective and individual best to add to the ear-splitting din of every steam whistle between Carondelet and Baden, and between Belleville and St. Charles.

In the downtown district the tin skillet with a clapper on either side and Wagnerian festival in between was the newest thing in the noise-making line. Obligato effects were supplied by tooting horns, clanging cowbells and popping corks.

Shouting and Singing.

Crowds pushed their way through the streets, shouting, singing and skillfully skilleting and joyously jangling, so that all the world might know how glad they were.

One feature of the usual New Year celebration was lacking. The police had put a ban on confetti. This prohibition left the revelers free to devote all of their energies to noise-making.

Though the downtown district was most congested, the fun-makers were abroad in all sections of the city.

Groups of young men hired sprinkling carts and went through the West End, proudly heralding their presence on the "water wagon." In most cases they were literally but not figuratively "on the wagon."

In the residence districts hundreds of church bells softened the din of siren whistles.

Tables Taken in Advance.

At all of the principal cafes and hotels tables for New Year's eve dinners had been engaged in advance and attempted to make reservations for the afternoon and evening were turned away. In every case the tables were elaborately decorated and favors were distributed to the guests.

At one cafe where nearly seven hundred sat down to their last dinner of the year many of the diners wore their costumes as they did not remove them until the stroke of 12 heralded the New Year.

pacific Coast, Tveitmoe replied: "Absolutely none."

Near Kansas City the prison train passed within sight of the railroad bridge across the Missouri River which Ortie E. McManigal confessed he blew up.

It had not long been daylight when the train pulled into the penitentiary yard. The prisoners' last view of the outside was a placid expanse of the Missouri River, on the surface of which was mirrored the golden glow of a brilliant sunrise.

From the train, within the prison gates, the prisoners were called forth alphabetically and stood two abreast.

"Riddin and Ryan," read the United States Marshal, "Cooley and Clancy," or "Beum and Butler." It was the last time in prison the men were to be called by name. Thereafter, Ryan, the head of a union of 12,000 members; William E. Riddin, Milwaukee," an iron workers' business agent who stood behind him; Philip A. Cooley, New Orleans; Eugene A. Clancy, San Francisco; Charles N. Beum, Minneapolis, and John T. Butler, Buffalo, vice-president of the union, were not to be called by name, but by number.

For more than an hour there was enacted a scene in the office of Deputy Warden W. H. Mackey, where, one by one, the prisoners were relieved of their pocket possessions. These were little trinkets, matches, pocketbooks, pipes, handkerchiefs and photographs of wives, mothers and other relatives from whose likenesses the prisoners now had to part as yesterday in Indianapolis they had parted from the real presences.

38 Cents in Ryan's Pocket.

Ryan's pockets were the first searched. He had a rosary, a prayer book and 38 cents. When he walked in, Ryan faced the Deputy Warden with his shoulders thrown back and head erect. It required about three minutes thus to dispose of the president of the Iron Workers' International Union, a man who for seven years traveled from the Atlantic to the Pacific on the business of the union. His pockets emptied, Ryan was taken to another room to have his prison clothes fitted.

A photograph of three little girls fell from the pocket of Charles N. Beum. Beum, a former member of the Iron Workers' Executive Board, could scarcely repeat his name. Gazing with a wistful look as the photograph was folded in a large yellow envelope, he raised his hands to his face and cried bitterly.

"Herbert S. Hockin," announced the clerk. In stepped the man who at the trial was called the "Iago of the conspiracy because he was charged with dyna...

WOMAN AND MAN, CUT OFF IN FIRE, SAVED BY LADDER

Flames in Night at 1919 Olive Peril Lives of Occupants of Flat Above.

H. L. Ames, proprietor of a general store at 1919 Olive street and living in a flat above the store, and his housekeeper, Miss Emily B. Elgasser, had a narrow escape at 1:30 Monday morning, when fire broke out in the store and cut off a stairway which is the only exit from the flat. They were rescued by firemen, who put a ladder up to a front window and assisted them down.

Ames said he was awakened by a cry of "Fire!" from a paserby in Olive street and found the flat filled with dense smoke. He groped his way to Miss Elgasser's room and aroused her, but when they reached the stairway they were unable to descend because of the heat and the smoke.

While they were trying to devise a means of escape, they heard the gongs of the fire apparatus in Olive street. They ran to the front of the house, raised a window and called for help. A few moments later they were safe on the sidewalk. Both had managed to throw on enough clothes to keep them from suffering from cold.

On reaching the street, Miss Elgasser became greatly excited about the welfare of her two pet cats, "Buster" and "Bill." The firemen found "Bill" and carried him out, but "Buster" was missing when the excitement was over and Miss Elgasser fears he perished.

The fire in the store was found to be principally around the stove, which Ames, on retiring, had banked full of coal. He believes a coal popped from the stove and started the fire.

The blaze in the store was extinguished easily, but the stock and fixtures had been badly damaged. Ames said he could not estimate his loss until he had gone through the entire stock.

St. Louisan Is Elected.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 1.—Alfred K. Krippner of St. Louis was elected regent by the grand chapter of the Sigma Nu fraternity in biennial session here.

RECONCILIATION IS SOUGHT; 3 IN JAIL, TWO IN HOSPITAL

Husband Tries to Regain Wife; Her Caller Shoots, Husband's Friend Hit, Woman Hysterical.

Grover C. Windes, a farmer living at Danby, Mo., attempted to effect a New Year's reconciliation with his wife, Mrs. Viola Windes, living at 632 South Broadway, with the result that Leo Krueger, 20 years old, a friend of Windes, who accompanied him to his wife's home at 1 a. m. Wednesday, was shot through the arm and is at the city hospital.

Mrs. Windes is in the hospital suffering from hysteria, and Miss Stella Wolff of 634 South Broadway, a friend of Mrs. Windes, and James Morrin, 18, of 632 South Broadway, who was calling on the wife when her husband appeared, are under arrest.

Windes told the police he and his wife have been separated several weeks and that he came here Tuesday to induce her to return to him. He had Krueger accompany him, he says, to act as mediator. When they arrived at Mrs. Windes' room he says he found Morrin and other friends celebrating the arrival of 1913. The wife screamed when she saw her husband, he says, and Morrin drew a revolver and chased both husband and friend.

Morrin is said to have fired three shots while the two men retreated. Two of the bullets struck Krueger, but Windes escaped injury.

Attracted by the shots, a policeman arrested all in the party. While he was arresting Mrs. Windes, Miss Wolff attempted to rescue her from the patrolman by force, with the result that she, too, was arrested.

TWO PERSONS END LIVES BY GAS ON NEW YEAR'S EVE

Several Are Shot, Negro Is Killed and 110 More or Less Drunk Are Locked Up.

A hundred and ten persons who had imbibed too freely New Year's eve spent the early hours of the morning in the jail and police stations in varying degrees of sobriety.

One killing and two cases of self-destruction also marked the appearance of the new year. Two persons were shot accidentally and a dozen or more were arrested for discharging firearms. Many minor accidents were reported.

Joseph Moore, a negro, 48 years old, was killed by a negro who is believed to have visited him Tuesday night. At 2:30 Wednesday morning Moore's body was found in the rear of his home, 2108 Franklin avenue. His wife told of an altercation with the visitor.

Found Dead in Bed.

Ross Bell, 26 years old, was found dead in his bed, at 4068 Flad avenue, at 2 a. m. Wednesday. Four gas jets were turned on and the police believe Bell ended his own life. Arthur and Edwin Byer, residing in the apartment above Bell, told the police Bell had been drinking heavily earlier in the evening and when they returned in the morning dropped in to see how he was doing. They found him unconscious and he was dead when a doctor arrived.

Miss Simmie A. Nossinger, 42 years old, was found dead in her room at 4... W. Belle place, at 8 o'clock in the evening. The room was filled with gas. Her brother, Roland Nossinger, smelled the gas and broke in with an ax.

Joseph Hanneken, 34 years old, a ...ster of 1220 Chambers street, shot himself in a saloon at 3023 North Jefferson avenue, after he had bought a round of drinks for companions. He was taken to the city hospital, where his condition is considered critical.

An unconscious man was found by Patrolman Goerre early Wednesday morning in the rear of 2220 Cherokee street. He was taken to the city hospital, where he was found to have a fractured skull. The only clew to identification are the initials "A. G." on the man's suspenders and his murmuring the name of Guenewald.

[S]T. LOUIS COUNTY NEW SHERIFF AIMS TO 'GET' DRUMMOND

Wealthy Bigamist Who Violated Parole to Be Brought to Trial if Possible.

SAID TO BE IN FAR WEST

New Prosecutor Declares No Quarter Will Be Shown Absent Criminal.

The newly elected officials of St. Louis [Count]y were sworn in Wednesday by [Count]y Clerk William Seibel at his of[fice i]n the courthouse. Incidentally it [was] asserted that the new officials will [mak]e every effort to bring Charles R. [Dru]mmond to Clayton to be tried for [bre]aking his parole from a six months' [sen]tence for bigamy, and that no quar[ter] will be shown him. Drummond is [su]pposed to be in business in Southern [Ca]lifornia.

"Nothing that I can do to bring Drum[mo]nd to Clayton will be left undone," said George A. Bode, who succeeded John Grueninger Jr. as Sheriff. "If it is possible to get him, I'll get him."

"Drummond need expect no quarter if he is brought back for trial," was the comment of Arthur V. Lashly, sworn in as Prosecuting Attorney to succeed Edwin W. Mills.

Bode Names Deputies.

George Herpel Jr. was selected by Bode as his Chief Deputy, and Fred Grimshaw, Albert Lill and Andrew J. [Sh]ores as Deputies. The appointments will be submitted to the Circuit Court for approval Monday.

Lashly's assistants are E. R. Chappell, George Barnett and Edwin Rosenthal.

The other officials sworn in are: [Lou]is H. Bopp, an undertaker, as Coro[ner,] succeeding Dr. Rolla Bracy; Jacob Schaedler, as treasurer, succeeding [Geo]rge Herpel; William Elbring, who [was] re-elected, as County Surveyor, and [Alb]ert Wilmas and William Buermann [as J]udges of the County Court.

Marries Fourth Time.

[Dr]ummond, in the eyes of the law, is [a fug]itive from justice, although he as[serts t]hat he has observed the terms [of his] parole and has reformed. In an [intervie]w with a Post-Dispatch cor[respond]ent at San Diego, Cal., last July, [Drumm]ond said he had been married at [... i]n May to Mrs. Marjorie Duffy [...]ca, N. Y., and had gone into [busines]s in San Diego with the intention [of mak]ing that city his home.

[Dr]ummond was convicted of bigamy [for m]arrying Miss Charlotte Vincent. [He e]loped before the second wife, [who] was Miss Charlotte Bente, had [obtaine]d a divorce and the marriage [there]fore was declared illegal. The [first] Mrs. Drummond divorced her husband several years ago. Drummond [subse]quently attracted much attention [by re]ason of his whirlwind courtships, [and] in elopements.

EGGNOG PARTIES AND NEW YEAR'S CALLS FILL DAY

Lavish Entertainment Provided in Accordance With St. Louis Traditions.

Although St. Louis was up late, society did not remain long abed New Year's morning.

Social St. Louis started out at 10 o'clock for its annual jollifications. And the card of events indicated that it will again be late, before St. Louis once more seeks its couch. The city will observe customs that have been handed down from the days when the residence district began at Main street and ended at Seventh. Now, as then, sometime during the day, most everybody went calling to wish everybody else a Happy New Year. Although the spirit is the same the fashions have changed, and now there are only a few who keep open house in the old way.

The style now is to send out invitations because St. Louis has grown so large, and there are so many more people making up society.

Today all over the residence part of St. Louis are gay crowds of men and women, young and old, going from one hospitable home to another, where eggnog parties are being given.

There were at least four at 11 o'clock, that kept motors, and feet-flying from one place to another.

Maffitts Entertain.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Maffitt gave a party in honor of Miss Julia Bates, one of the belles of the winter and Mr. Maffitt's cousin and just as they did before they moved from their old home at Twenty-eighth and Pine street, Mr. and Mrs. J. Harrison Steedman gave a New Year's eggnog party, and at 11 o'clock their house was one of the centers of attraction.

Mr. and Mrs. Nat Ewing shared honors with the Steedmans and the Maffitts. Miss Ethel Cox gave a party for Miss Margaret Shapleigh, another of the buds of the winter.

Country Club Luncheon.

The Country Club always has a luncheon on New Years and a little after noon all the men, maids and matrons go there. It is one of the jolliest, most informal days of the year out there.

The St. Louis Club, too, has a buffet luncheon which attracts quite a number of parties.

Mr. and Mrs. Chouteau Maffitt kept open house informally in the afternoon. So did Mr. and Mrs. William H. Thomson.

For a number of years James Green's home has been the scene of a beautiful reception, and his daughter, Mrs. Walter Duke Thompson, has kept up the custom of her mother's lifetime. She and her father receive together every New Year's afternoon. This year Miss Julia Rumsey, Mrs. Thompson's cousin, received with them.

Concert in Evening.

Everybody came back from the club for their reception and in the evening there will be the first appearance of La Gai, the dancer, at the Odeon with the Symphony Orchestra, and the dinner dance given by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fitzhugh Simon for their daughter, Miss Alvina Simon, at the Woman's Club, which will be one of the notable social functions of the winter.

Famous "Pint of Cough Syrup" Receipt

No Be[tt]er Remedy at Any Price. Fully [G]uaranteed.

Mak[e] a plain syrup by mixing one pint of granulated sugar and ½ pint of warm water and stir for two minutes. Put 2½ ounces of pure Pinex (fifty cents worth) in a pint bottle, and fill it up with the Sugar Syrup. This gives you a family supply of the best cough syrup at a saving of $2.

The effectiveness of this simple remedy is surprising. It seems to take hold instantly, and will usually stop the most obstinate cough in 24 hours. Also excellent for bronchial trouble, throat tickle, sore lungs and asthma, and an unequaled remedy for whooping cough and croup.

This recipe for making cough remedy with Pinex and Sugar Syrup (or strained honey) is a prime favorite in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada. The plan has been imitated, though never successfully. If you try it, use only genuine Pinex, which is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in guaiacol and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this recipe.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind. [A]DV.

DOCTORS FAILED AGAIN— THE GREAT KIDNEY REMEDY SAVED HER

It has been a few years since your Swamp-Root has been used in my family but it is not too late to tell you the benefit that we derived from its use. My wife was taken seriously ill at the time with what several local doctors diagnosed as chronic kidney trouble. The treatment that she received from several of the leading physicians in this city did not seem to help her in any way. The last physician we had in attendance declared her case was hopeless and that nothing could be done. I had seen Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root advertised and decided to at least try it. Very shortly after beginning its use my wife was resting easier and showed much improvement. She continued its use until several bottles had been taken and was not entirely cured but has not suffered any from the trouble since. The result derived from the use of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root in this case I consider remarkable and shall always have a good word for your splendid preparation.

Very truly yours,
J. AMES CROWTHER,
448 Cherry St. Columbia, Pa.

On this 20th day of March, 1912, personally appeared before me, a Notary Public for the State of Pennsylvania and County of Lancaster, J. Ames Crowther, who being duly sworn, says the above facts are true and correct.

JAMES R. KEENE SO ILL SON HAS HIM SENT TO HOSPITAL

Famed Turfman for First Time in Many Years Deserts His Hotel Apartments.

NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—The illness of James R. Keene, financier and famous breeder and trainer of race horses, took such an alarming turn for the worse recently as to necessitate his removal from the Waldorf-Astoria, where Mr. Keene has had apartments for many years, to Miss Alston's private hospital. Mr. Keene's health has not been good for more than two years. At present his condition is such that he is not left alone one minute day or night, but all details are withheld.

It is believed that the transfer to the hospital was made at the request of Foxhall Keene, as Mr. Keene himself has always belittled his illness and shown impatience with the doctors who endeavored to impress on him the necessity of guarding his health.

James R. Keene was born in London in 1838 and immigrated to California in 1852. He was a prospector, stock raiser, editor and nearly everything else in the wild days of California before the war. He made his first big "killing" in the famous Comstock silver mines in Nevada. In 1877 he came to New York on his way to Europe for a rest. Instead of going further he stopped here, plunged in the market, and, although no one probably knows how much money he won, it is generally believed he more than doubled his fortune in a few months.

Since then he has been for many years the most conspicuous operator in the exchange, and the most prominent figure of the American turf. A list of the horses that have worn his colors would be practically identical with a list of the most famous horses of the last 20 years.

Sysonby, Colin, Peter Pan, Domino and a host of others have earned a permanent place in the history of the race tracks in this country, and all of them have carried the colors of James R. Keene past the winning post.

CALIFORNIA INVESTS $58,320,000 IN AUTOS

State Which Leads in Motor Vehicles With 92,199, Worth $184,000,000.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 1.—Records of the motor vehicle department of the Secretary of State's office show that California invested approximately $58,320,000 in automobiles in 1912. The year's purchase include 29,160 motor vehicles, exclusive of motor cycles.

Attaches of the motor vehicle department believe this exceeds by about 5000 the year's record of New York State, California's closest competitor. On Oct. 1, New York had registered approximately 19,000 new cars.

There are now operated in California, exclusive of machines imported after registry in other states, 92,199 motor cars, representing an investment of $184,386,000.

"BLOOD IS THICKER THAN WATER"

Without good red blood a man has a weak heart and poor nerves. Thinness of the blood, or anaemia, is common in young folks as well as old. Especially is it the case with those who work in illy ventilated factories—or those who are shut up indoors in winter time with a coal stove burning up the oxygen or emitting carbonic (oxide) gas. This blood, or blood which lacks the red blood corpuscles, in anaemic people may have been caused by lack of good fresh air breathed into lungs, or by poor digestion or dyspepsia. Sometimes people suffer intense pain over the heart which is not heart disease at all, but caused by indigestion. Whatever the cause, there's just one remedy that you can turn to—knowing that it has given satisfaction for over 40 years.

WOMAN, TOO ILL TO WORK, ENDS HER LIFE

Found Dead From Gas by Brother Who Broke Into Her Room.

Ill health, which had necessitated the surrendering of one position after another, is believed to have caused Miss Simmie A. Nossinger, 42 years old, to kill herself in her room at 4409 West Belle place, Tuesday evening, by closing all apertures in the room and turning on the gas.

Mrs. Mary A. Delaunsch, in whose home Miss Nossinger boarded, knocked at the door of the room about 8 p. m. and received no response. Becoming alarmed, she called Miss Nossinger's brother, Roland Nossinger of 4455 West Belle place, who forced the door and found his sister lying on the bed fully clothed and dead. Mrs. Delaunsch said Miss Nossinger had not appeared for her meals all day.

Until a year ago Miss Nossinger had a position in the offices of a construction company, her brother said. After she had been compelled to resign because of failing health she tried to hold various other positions, but had to give up each time. She surrendered her last job two weeks ago, he said, and had been despondent since.

MANTELL PLAYS A MACBETH GREAT IN TRAGIC INTENSITY

BIG MOMENTS REALIZED

Shakspeare's Bloody Old Drama, With One Infinitely Touching Scene, Well Staged.

By RIPLEY D. SAUNDERS.

THE most moving—and also the gentlest—moment in the bloody old tragedy of "Macbeth" is reached when the guilt-crushed husband and wife, worn to despair by remorse, lift from their haggard brows the twin crowns of Scotland and place the futile symbols of royalty on the rude table beside them, weary of their wearing.

They are alone and they feel that their life story's ending of shame and utter soul-rot is near. They have sinned greatly, each in ambition for the other. They were originally of noble minds. But now they are of immemorial infamy. All their vast crimes have come to nothing and availed them naught.

A profoundly ironic smile twists the grim lips of Macbeth as his moody eyes rest scornfully upon the gold circlet for which he has damned himself to all eternity. He shakes his bowed and careworn head in hopeless dejection of spirit. Then, almost furtively his glance wanders from the crown to the face of Lady Macbeth. They have loved one another with an all-consuming love. Mutely, with the dumb pathos of unutterable anguish, he asks judgment of her for whose sake he has so immortally forfeited their once high estate.

And the woman, voicing a sad little feminine cry in which wifely devotion and an awed repentance are indescribably blended, places her arms softly about the neck of her rugged but now piteously broken spouse, rests her cheek against his broad breast, and, with never a word to name the horror of their plight, thus claims the last refuge and comfort possible to her. They are no longer King and Queen of Scotland. They are but a man and a woman in the uttermost depths of hopeless despair.

Robert Mantell and Florence Rockwell accomplished this situation with fine effectiveness at the Shubert Theater on Tuesday evening. Mr. Mantell had played a great Macbeth, and his portrayal was to remain great until the fall of the last curtain. Miss Rockwell ha not been a great Lady Macbeth at all moments, but a memorable triumph still awaited her achievement in the sleep-walking scene. And throughout the entire progress of the most somber of all the Shakspearean dramas, playing to the best realization of Macbeth which Mr. Mantell has ever presented on a St. Louis stage, she revealed with touching tenderness the long forgotten truth that it was the love of a proud wife for a masterful husband which alone tempted Lady Macbeth to the dreadful sins of her committing. It is here that lies, from beginning to end, the dramatic value of the Lady Macbeth of this player's almost virgin playing. Properly enough, in her degree, she shared with Mr. Mantell the triumphs of the night.

Of the supporting company, and almost inevitably, the most notable member was Mr. Fritz Leiber as Macduff, although a marked huskiness placed a sort of muffling veil over a voice which should ring out like a trumpet if the role's best effects are to be gained. Mr. Leiber's conception of the part is admirable. He plays it in a splendid spirit of youthful and soldierly ardor. Only his voice was in arrears, diminishing, to just this extent, the worthiness of a performance excellent in all other respects.

Guy Lindsley invested the role of young Malcolm, son of King Duncan, with unwonted magnetism, so spirited was his playing of the part. The Duncan of Mr. Alfred Hastings' playing was benignantly royal. Mr. Brigham Royce was an excellent Banquo, and the three witches depicted by Miss Agnes Elliott Scott, Miss Genevieve Reynolds and Mr. Allen Thomas were adequately grisly and horror-fraught. Others of importance in the cast were Mr. L'Estrange Millman as Lennox, Mr. Raymond Geist as a Sergeant, Mr. Noel Tearle as Ross, Mr. John Burke as Seyton, Miss Bessie Lenore as Fleance, son of Banquo; Miss Genevieve Hamper as a gentlewoman in attendance upon Lady Macbeth, and William Courtleigh Jr. and William Miller as the first and second murderers.

"The Merchant of Venice" is this afternoon's offering. "Othello" will be presented this evening.

TAFT RECEIVES BRILLIANT THRONG AT WHITE HOUSE

High Officials of United States and Gorgeous-Hued Foreigners There.

ALL BIDDEN TO ATTEND

President Shakes Hands With All Those Who Care to Come to Greet Him.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.—President Taft's fourth and last New Year's reception at the White House was greeted by a day beautiful and bright. Thousands early turned their eyes and their steps in the direction of the executive mansion. Long before the time at which the chief executive of of nation was ready to shake hands with every citizen who cared to avail himself of the privilege a line of men, women and children stood in a line from the front door of the White House to the distant gate and far beyond towards the State, War and Navy buildings.

The rich and gorgeous uniforms of the foreign diplomats, the gold lace of the long line of American army and navy officers and in the background the brilliant scarlet coats of the Marine Band were features in the moving picture of the day's events at the White House with the color customs of thousands of ordinary citizens.

The President and Mrs. Taft prepared at 11 o'clock to wish a Happy New Year first to members of the Cabinet and their wives and to the diplomatic corps; these followed by the members of the Supreme Court and by the Judges of the other courts here; then former Cabinet officers, ambassadors and ministers; next members of Congress; then the Army, Navy and Marine corps officers; after which came a long line of Government officials, members of commissions, then members of the Grand Army of the Republic, and a number of other military societies.

Doors Opened to All.

After all these had been greeted, the doors of the White House stood open to the humblest citizen in the land and he, too, was assured of a hearty handshake and a smile.

One picturesque touch absent from the New York kaleidoscope of color at the White House for the first time in 10 years was missing because Baron Hengelmuller, Ambassador from Austri-Hungary, dean of the diplomatic corps, was not in the city. His royally gorgeous costume of rich purple and red always attracted much attention. Several other diplomats were unable to be present because of sickness, the Chilean and Colombian ministers being among the number. The diplomatic line was led by Ambassador Jusserand of France.

The army and navy contingent made a brilliant spectacle. Every officer of the two services as well as of the marine branch, now in Washington, was under orders to report at the War and Navy departments.

Knox Receives Diplomats.

Secretary of State and Mrs. Knox prepared to receive the diplomats immediately after they left the White House at a breakfast in their honor given in the Pan-American Union Building. To meet them were invited also the members of the Senate Foreign Relations and House Foreign Affairs Committees.

RUSSIAN TREATY EXPIRES, NO NEW ONE PROJECTED

Diplomatic Failure to Readjust Relations Embarrasses Growing Trade.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31.—The expiration at midnight of the treaty of trade and commerce between America and Russia, marking as it does a complete failure of diplomacy to adjust grave issues between the two countries, throws upon the administration and judicial officers of the governments the whole burden of the maintenance of the traditional friendly relations between the two countries, as well as the conservation of a rapidly growing trade, already amounting to more than $50,000,000 annually.

The treaty, which had been in effect since 1832, was denounced by the United States as a result of popular feeling against Russia's refusal to recognize passports issued to American Jews. No negotiations likely to result in a new treaty are in progress. The conditions that will hereafter govern must exist solely by virtue of administrative orders, and through the exercise of powers common to all nations under international law.

According to Burns, one of the men grabbed the bridle of his horse and stopped the wagon, and the other climbed aboard and attacked him. He says he repulsed his assailant and put both men to rout.

DVANCE OF WORLD-WIDE DEMOCRACY IN 1912.

Havi most a continent of inexhaustible ources, we have been careless of have not felt the pinch of economic sure.

But last year marked a national political re- olt against plutocracy and privilege—against all hose forces which have used political parties and he machinery of government to exploit the peo- le.

There was a new birth of freedom.

The political revolution was the climax of a opular movement which has been fermenting for early two decades. It had found expression in adical changes in political methods in a few tates, in the adoption or advocacy of more or ess radical social and industrial measures in many states and in revolt against political bosses who served the exploiting interests in all the states.

The people awakened to the realization that gaining political rights are only half the battle of Democracy; that political rights are mere in- struments to gain and maintain social and indus- rial rights.

The result of the movement was the reorgani- ation of the Democratic party and the organi- ation of the Progressive party composed in the mai of Republicans who deserted the old party org. ization.

The victory of the Democratic party, reorgan- ized on Democratic principles and pledged to progressive policies was the greatest advance of he Democratic movement since the war. The ime purpose of the party, according to its plat- rm and the utterances of President-elect Wood- Wilson, are to free the Government from ocratic control and restore it to popular con- to destroy legal and illegal privilege and perate finance, commerce and industry from shackles of monopoly. TION IN THE STATES.

a dozen of the states have regular ses- heir legislatures been held, though spe- ns were held in several. Perhaps the rtant step during the year toward res- the rule of the people in the states r the adoption of the new Ohio Con- ith its liberal use of the new devices islation, its special safeguards against ses and other innovations. In addition, Michigan rejected woman's suffrage by only 700 majority in a total vote of several hundred thousand that disclosed many irregularities operating to the disadvantage of the proposition. Suffrage amendments were forced to a vote in Ohio and Wisconsin with somewhat less satisfactory results. In Massachusetts and several other states woman's suffrage was indorsed in party platforms. In New York, in fact almost every state of the Union including Missouri, organizations working to secure political rights for women have shown increased aggressiveness. In many parts of the country the disposition to utilize the services of women in public offices dealing with social problems has become more pronounced. At the city of Washington a Federal Child's Welfare Bureau under the direction of a woman chief was instituted.

Abroad, the woman's movement showed a record of progress with actual achievement deferred in most cases to later dates. In England announcement was made during the closing weeks of the year that the Ministry had agreed to permit a woman's suffrage bill to come to a vote in the House of Commons. The Cabinet's attitude is only permissive, as the bill will not be made a ministerial measure, but the concession was welcomed as a victory. It is some years since a suffrage bill came to a square issue on passage in Parliament, though collateral votes have shown an affirmative majority. The year was marked by mischevous reprisals of increasing seriousness on the part of British suffragists.

In Sweden, where women now have municipal suffrage, a bill conferring full suffrage passed the lower house of the Riksdag, but was defeated in the upper house. Denmark, with about the same population as the three American states which have just conceded votes to women, now gives them communal suffrage. Much work was done there during the year for full suffrage and also in France, where women in business are already conceded the right to vote for certain Judges. One of the interesting announcements of the year was that in China republican government would be instituted on the basis of full suffrage without discrimination as to sex. Republican Portugal and even Hungary are among the countries in which agitations for political rights for women have been heard from and in Turkey prior to the opening of the Balkan war progress had been made toward wider social opportunities for women.

SOCIAL AND INDUSTRIAL PROGRESS.

Gratifying progress has been made in legislation, national and State, looking to the amelioration of conditions of labor. Laws either enacted or being urged cover such subjects as just compensation of workers and their dependents in case of injury or death; prevention of "occupational" diseases; a minimum wage for women; creation of boards of children's guardians, to provide pensions for widowed mothers, with the object of enabling them to keep orphan children at home instead of committing them to asylums and orphanages; provision of municipal lodging houses for men out of work, etc. Labor itself has also made progress, through winning of justifiable strikes, such as that at Lawrence. The practical cessation of violence in labor agitation since the exposure of the McNamara dynamiting campaign seems to show that the shock of that exposure has had the effect of causing leaders, as well as the rank and file, to carry on the fight along conservative, democratic lines, without further appeals to force.

Early in 1912 the United States Supreme Court rendered a decision holding constitutional the employers' liability law passed by Congress in 1908. This applied to railway employes engaged in interstate commerce, and provided for compensation in case of injury or death, even when such injury or death had been due to the neglect of a "fellow servant." Since then, bills have been introduced in several State legislatures, providing for obligatory industrial insurance on the part of the employer, and practically abrogating the ancient "fellow servant" rule. In Illinois, such a law went into effect on May 1, compelling the payment of a minimum compensation, amounting, in the case of death of a workman from injuries received while at work, to not less than $1500. In Missouri a workman's compensation bill, similar in many respects to the New Jersey law, has been approved by a special commission composed of members of the last Legislature, and is ready for introduction at the next session. It covers all injuries, unless self-inflicted or suffered during a state of intoxication. It provides for half pay to temporarily disabled employe for 300 weeks; half pay for 400 weeks for permanent disability due to injury, and half pay to dependents during 300 weeks, in case of death. The national Democratic platform pledges the coming administration to the passage of an employes' compensation law "so far as the Federal jurisdiction extends."

Passage by Congress of what is known as the Esch phosphorus bill, long advocated by the Post-Dispatch, makes illegal the manufacture of matches with what is known as white or free phosphorus in the tips. The use of this kind of phosphorus has resulted in the dreadful disease known as phossy jaw. After Jan. 1, 1913, although dealers will be permitted to sell stocks of matches on hand, no others using white phosphorus can be made in this country, and the cause of the disease will be done away with. It is to the credit of American match manufacturers that they have co-operated in getting this law passed.

Missouri was one of the first to enact a law providing for the payment of weekly sums to widowed mothers, for the care of their orphaned children, Mrs. Henrietta C. Cosgrove of Joplin, Mo., being first to call public attention to the need. Illinois followed Missouri, and passed a law even more sweeping. It is now the intention of Missouri leaders in the movement to have the law here amended so as to bring it up to the Illinois standard. Similar laws are under consideration in several of the states, and in European countries. H. G. Wells, the English novelist, characterizes this legislation as "the most important in the history of the world."

The subject of a minimum wage, sufficient to insure comfort for men and to safeguard women workers against forfeiting their self-respect, is under agitation everywhere. The Commission on Social Service of the Philadelphia Church Federation, after close study, published their finding that no girl can be self-supporting in a great city on less than $7.80 per week. The Public Service Corporation of New Jersey places the minimum at $9 for the women and girls in its employ and voluntarily raised their wages to that minimum. Several State legislatures will be urged to take action along these lines. A law is to be introduced at the coming session of the Missouri Legislature providing for a minimum wage for working women. England has such a law, and Massachusetts has recently enacted one.

The textile workers' strike at Lawrence, Mass., involving 275,000 workers in the New England woolen mills and lasting from January till the middle of March, was an example of effective cooperation by the workers and unwise action on the part of employers and officials in opposing a just demand for better conditions. Because of the arbitrary and illegal attempt to prevent the strikers from sending their children out of the zone of trouble, and the attempt to discredit the strike through the "planting" of explosives in strikers' houses, public sympathy aided largely in the winning of this strike, which resulted in a congressional investigation, at which Mrs. Taft was an interested listener. The increase of wages as a result of the victory averaged from 5 to 7 per cent.

The effort to solve the problem of shelter for homeless men in the large cities during cold weather has resulted in laws providing for municipal lodging houses in many cities.

The work of the American Association for Labor legislation, an organization created to further the enactment of laws beneficial to the wage earners, is bringing results. Having aided in the enactment of the Esch phosphorus match law, the association is now agitating for a national law that will prevent lead poisoning, which causes disease and death in the white lead factories. It also proposes a law to insure all workers one day's rest in seven; the uniform reporting of all industrial accidents and diseases; a revision of the Federal Employes Compensation law, to make it more liberal and effective; better protection of working women, and the more thorough enforcement of existing laws providing for factory inspection.

Other indications of the workings of the democratic spirit in industry were the peaceful adjudication of the claims of the bituminous and anthracite miners, which, early in the spring, threatened a strike by 250,000 coal miners; and the settlement by arbitration of the threatened strike on 52 railroads in the Eastern states, which would have paralyzed a large part of the country. St. Louis witnessed the largest labor parade in its history, 35,000 workers making a peaceful demonstration on Labor day. An event of interest to railway workers was the recent announcement by the Frisco Railway of a pension system for its employes.

LIBERAL MEASURES IN ENGLAND.

In England the year was marked by preparation for additional measures in the interest of the people rather than by actual legislation of importance. The Liberal government was strengthened for fresh activities. Having broken the power of the House of Lords, struck down privilege and monopoly in landholding, passed old age pensions and insurance bills, the Liberals are ready to put into law three more important measures—disestablishment of the State Church in Wales, home rule for Ireland and election reform. The latter will put an end to plural voting, will redistribute seats and eliminate the anomalies of the existing suffrage law. It will complete the great Democratic program for the establishing of popular rights and will thus lay the foundation for other advances.

THE BALKAN VICTORY.

Outside of Great Britain the notable advance of democracy in Europe is the destruction of Turkish power in Europe by the allied Balkan states. The issues of the Balkan War were political, social and economic. The allies fought for freedom from the political yoke of Turkey and relief from the intolerable social and industrial burdens of Turkish feudalism. They fought for both land and liberty. Although under monarchial forms, all the states enjoy a large measure of popular liberty and the consummation of their plans will revolutionize conditions in Southeastern Europe.

In Turkey itself those reforms which were instituted by the Young Turks have suffered a setback, but Greece, championing the independence of Crete, has offered a luminous example of principle to the world.

IN CONTINENTAL EUROPE.

In Spain the unrest, though it has expressed itself overtly in but few instances, one of which culminated in the murder of Canalejas, is attributable to increasing uneasiness under the yoke. The progress of democracy is nowhere more difficult to register than among the Spaniards, victims of political sloth, but though the progress may not have been appreciable in the past year, it has been marked in the past decade in the utterances and actions of a long-oppressed populace.

In Italy the status quo of the liberal monarchy has not been disturbed by a people fairly content with the present forms and with whom the King is personally popular. It has frequently been remarked of Italy in late years that a change to a republican government would involve little more than the election of the King to the presidency. In Italy, however, "modernism" and "futurism," the doctrine of progressivism, are dominant ideas.

In France free institutions have continued to flourish, with frequent demonstrations of the people's power. Of these not the least has been the recent demonstration by the laboring classes against war. Imperial government maintains its iron grasp of Germany, yet at the same time retains the sympathy and support of the most powerful classes and the great industrial population through a spirit of liberality and concession.

Despite extreme measures of repression and efforts to render parliamentary government futile, the struggle of the Russian people for freedom persists.

In Persia, due partly to contact with American ideas and American example, democracy may be said to be a live if not a promising principle; while in China, the patriots having composed their differences with the Manchus and set about the perfecting of free institutions and the building of governmental machinery, there is a great example of democracy which cannot be lost upon the Orient.

India, under the reforms initiated by Great Britain, is steadily advancing towards a large measure of self-government.

Altogether the year has been fruitful of progress. The democratic world movement has gone forward and where it has failed to find expression in actual steps toward human liberty, there is evidence of quickening seed for a later harvest.

Humanity advances steadily.

THE FIRST CUT.

JUST A MINUTE

Written for the Post-Dispatch by Clark McAdams.

GREETING.

I.

Good morning, Mr. Parcel Post!
Here's hoping you are hearty!
We always thought you were a pledge
Of some designing party.
We never quite expected this,
For being scarce foresighted—
But be that as it haply may,
Delighted!

II.

The politicians, as a rule,
Don't very well remember
The rosy promises which serve
Their purpose in November.
Full many a beautiful reform
Is subsequently slighted—
But be that as it haply may,
Delighted!

III.

The mail man passes on a truck
Like heavy-rolling thunder,
And the voter, waking with the noise,
Arises full of wonder.
He can't remember when his faith
Was ever so requited—
But be that as it haply may,
Delighted!

What's Wrong With Missouri.

It would be hard, Bildad, to tell what reform is needed most in Missouri, though we are inclined to believe there should be a law to remedy this awful indifference among farmers to the needs of men and women who were brought up on genetin apples that were nectarized by contact with mother earth. Never since the morning stars first sang together was there a fruit that was as satisfying to the palate or as comforting to the stomach as this old-fashioned variety after it had inhabited a hole in the ground until the new year's dawn. Mellowed to perfection, so mealy it melted in the mouth, so perfectly flavored it left nothing to the imagination, it came nearer solving the problem of human happiness than any other product of orchard or vineyard or field. The accumulated troubles of many weary weeks vanished away, and appetites which refused to be tempted by kitchen viands revived and renewed their youth when the old applehole was opened and the genetins came forth with soil upon their skins and the juice of joy beneath the surface.—Jack Blanton in Monroe County Appeal.

MIRROR OF THE WORLD.

Petal and flower
Of WAS, of is, of all TO BE,
Of time, space, eternity—
All art, all power.
Type of all types, stage of all stages,
Work of all works, page of all pages—
Here hath its hour.

* * * * * *

O wondrous stage! O mirror vast!
Where minds of men their shadows cast;
Vast in extent, with myriad scenes,
Somber or tinsel, grays and greens.

Amphitheater of the years,
Uncurtained to the universe,
Encircled, aye! by countless tiers
Where players grave, or gay rehearse:

As troubadours in minstrelsy,
As strutting clowns in comedy,
As kings and rulers of the state,
As Folly's sons with wine elate;
As bards in witching melody,
As monks, austere and celibate,
As hero's, bold, in tragedy
As maid, new-wed, to callow mate.

Great argosies with Croesus hoards,
Enter and exit o'er the boards,
Gray derelicts with rotting decks,
Flotsam, jetsam of ancient wrecks.

Base traitors to their flag and land,
Proclaim anarchy's lethal cause,
In brazen frontage, daring stand
Awaiting, eager, damn'd applause.

Rapine and war is here portrayed,
Phalanx 'gainst legion here arrayed,
Song, shyly bruits her epilogue,
Fleered by Fool in dialogue.

Man's wisdom, here, ev'ery age—
The scarlet one, the son benign
Forever in combat engage
In war of words and pantomime.
Here mountebanks will have their fling,
Here satire vents her waspish sting,
Here demagogues their tenets teach,
Here monks with cowl their dogmas preach,
Here science with her magic wand,
Here Artistry with cunning tool
Here Arcturus and space beyond—
Here Magi's polytechnic school.

Beasts of the field with shepherds stand,
Lovers rove, the serene and grand
Depicted, each in player's guise,
Volcano's blast, the azure skies;
Word follows word, line follows line,
Olympus lights the dimless taper
And draughts the toast of gods in wine:

HENRY JUNE PATEE.

Wouldn't it be mean to wish the Express Trust a happy New Year?

Inventor of "Wister Sauce."

From the Chicago News.

Owen Wister, the novelist, receives many charming compliments, but he was rather taken aback at a dinner by the flattery of a girl next to whom he was seated. Smiling at him coquettishly, she said, as she twirled the stem of her glass: "It's so nice to meet famous people. And now do tell me how you came to invent that lovely sauce, Mr. Worcester?"

ANSWERS TO QUERIES.

BEAUTY CULTURE.

CONSTANT.—Some skins are thin and fine, and consequently inclined to be dry; others are filled with large pores, and constantly sending forth more oil than is welcome to their owners. The dry skins must be fed with cream and treated very gently; the oily skin must be treated with astringents and drying lotions. Those with dry skins should use powders very sparingly, while those with oily skins may use them very freely. Rice powder is the safest powder. A good skin food when the skin is dry is made up of lanolin, almond oil, cocoanut oil and white wax, with a few drops of perfume. Combinations of almond oil and white vaseline are very good. A good lotion for a dry skin, to be used during the day, is made of rose water and milk of sweet almonds. A good one for an oily skin is made up of equal parts alcohol and tincture of benzoin combined with white wine vinegar. An oily face may be bathed with alcohol and water, a pinch of borax in the water. Glycerin and rose water are adapted to oily skins, not to dry skins.

CLEANSING.

F.—Carpet ink stain: Make thick paste of starch and household ammonia and coat the spot. Cover to keep out dust and leave three days, then brush out starch and renew. Before applying the paste brush out the dust and wash the spot with clean water. Persevere.

HEALTH HINTS.

JOHNNY.—In treatment of chronic pleurisy, blisters and iodine are used locally, and potassium iodide, alternating with Basham's mixture, administered internally. You should have a good physician.

X.—Advanced physicians recommend elevation of the feet for insomnia. When caused by indigestion, no food should be given within a few hours of retiring, or if that be impracticable, the food should be of a light character. Lettuce is said to be helpful in insomnia. Some rub their feet until there is a sensation. "Eat carrots for it," says one. Onion is also recommended. Some put the feet in hot water, drink some water hot. A glass of milk before bedtime makes a simple sleep. Marion Harland says a simple expedient of keeping a piece of bread and butter within easy reach to be eaten should sleep prove shy has won for me many hours of refreshing slumber. The mere fact that you can get it, if you need it, is a sedative. When eaten it makes the stomach the ally of the tired brain by drawing the blood away from the brain in the work of digestion. Somebody else says: For sleeplessness wring a cloth in cold water. Apply to the back of the neck. Cover with dry towel. A medical man recommends a ripe mellow apple before retiring.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS.

E. S.—Give fern plenty of water. Always water fern from the bottom, which can be done by placing the flower pot in a vessel two inches deep, keeping water always in the vessel. In so doing the fern is kept moist and will grow nicely. Never pour water on the soil. Occasionally sprinkle or wash the leaves to free them from dust. It is said that ferns may be kept free from insects by giving them a steaming of three minutes. Once every week or so they should be put into the bathroom, shutting all windows and doors of the room to confine the steam. The bathtub should be partly filled with hot water. It will give off a good steam. The room should be left to cool suddenly after this is done. In treating the ferns to this bath it is not necessary to wash and sprinkle the leaves, which does not give so satisfactory a result.

E. B. G.—Sugar-cured hams and bacon: When meat is cooled, rub each piece with salt and allow to drain over night. Then pack in barrel, placing hams and shoulders in bottom, and using the strips of bacon to fill in between or to put on top. Weigh out for each 100 pounds of meat 8 pounds salt, 2 pounds brown sugar, 2 ounces saltpeter. Dissolve all in 4 gallons of water and cover the meat with the brine. For summer use it will be safest to boil the brine before using. In that case it should be thoroughly cooled before used. For winter curing it is not necessary to boil the brine. Bacon strips should remain in this brine four to six weeks, hams six to eight weeks. This is a standard recipe and has given the best of satisfaction. Hams and bacon cured in the spring will keep right through the summer after they are smoked. The meat will be sweet and palatable if it is properly smoked and the flavor will be good.

LAW POINTS.

ARE.—In Missouri 8 hours is a legal day's work. See Answers Dec. 28, at this office.

CONSTANT.—Wife disposing of her real estate in Texas, the signatures of her husband is required.

SOLDIER'S WIDOW.—Unless married before June 27, 1890, the widow of a soldier drawing pension would receive no pension unless his death was caused by his army service.

MR. X.—The chattel mortgage you executed no doubt gives the constable a right to enter your premises and remove the piano upon your becoming delinquent; that is why he did so, and without any court proceedings, which were not necessary, the mortgage setting forth what to be done in event of default.

AUTO.—If you have a written guaranty as to material and workmanship and your case is one strictly within the terms or agreement of guaranty, the charge for labor is not according to conditions of workmanship. Read the conditions of guaranty. If the agreement was verbal and can be proven a court would uphold you. If you cannot prove it, pay the bill.

FIXING BREAD PRICES.

From the New Orleans Picayune.

In France the price of bread, which is the principal article of food, is regulated according to It has been the care of several French communes and municipalities to regulate the price of bread by local ordinance. A much greater number of communes and cities, Paris among others, have in practice an arrangement whereby the bakers themselves establish the price of bread. In such cases the authorities pay close attention to the action of the bakers to the end that the price of bread to the consumer is made

BEFORE the snows had melted in the spring, his widowed mother was sleeping beside the fallen soldier, and Terry knew no parent save the service. To it he gave his devotion, and a corporal's chevrons were sewed on his sleeves. Was there a detail wanted to round up an Indian band? Terry was at the commander's quarters begging to be chosen.

The years dropped away; men came to the troop and joyfully welcomed their discharges at the expiration of their enlistment. Terence McGinnis remained. The triple-striped chevron of the sergeant adorned his arm, but otherwise he was unchanged. Silent and unquestioning at all times, daring and eager on an Indian trail, he was considered an enigma by officers and men. When the fever put him in the hospital at the fort he raved and babbled constantly—raved in a search to which he had consecrated himself.

When he was convalescent and was pressed for explanations, he smiled grimly and jested at his delirium.

Then came the relapse, and again he lay tossing in the burning grasp of fever. With a clatter of hoofs, a horse, its flanks dripping blood where the teeth of the spurs had bitten, stopped, panting, before the Major's quarters. A ranchman fell from the saddle. Quickly he was carried into the room. One glance showed that a bullet had crushed his left elbow. Brandy was forced between his lips.

"The Sioux," he gasped. "They've burned Wilson's ranch and murdered them all. I broke through; they're making for the hills." He fainted again.

BOLLING and muttering on his bed, Sergt. Terrence McGinnis was brought suddenly upright by the sharp notes of the bugle's "Boots and saddles." Then he lay back again, for the attendant was watching him. A moment later the "assembly" sounded, and a look of cunning came into the sick man's eyes as the hospital orderly ran out to see the cause of the trouble.

The troop was three miles away when the Captain, glancing back, saw a strange sight. Coming like the wind was a figure clad in white. Rapidly he gained on the troop, and a murmur from the ranks announced the arrival of Sergt. Terry McGinnis, hatless, barefooted, clothed only in his underclothes, with his sidearms buckled about his waist.

"For God's sake, Terry, go back," shouted the Captain as McGinnis galloped to his side and saluted.

The fever was burning the Sergeant's cheeks a livid red, and an unnatural brightness was in his eyes.

"I must go with the troop," he replied. "This is a good day for a scrap;" and his laugh was broken with the shivering of fever as he took his old place in the column.

Onward they rode, McGinnis sitting his saddle as firmly as of old. By the middle of the afternoon they had found their quarry and opened the fight. The Sioux were in greater numbers than had been expected, and the troopers dismounted and took shelter behind the boulders.

The tide of the battle was turning, the reds were beginning to press them, and a rider was sent back to the fort for reinforcements. Sergt. McGinnis fired steadily from his improvised breastworks. Suddenly he dropped his carbine and raising his head, peered long and intently at a brave who had ridden out from his fellows and was dashing along a few hundred yards distant, shouting defiance.

"Great God!" The Captain's face blanched, and a murmur of horror ran along the line behind the rocks.

Sergt. McGinnis had sprung to his horse and was charging straight for the warrior who had defied the men of the service. A shrill, unearthly howl escaped his lips as he drew his saber and pressed his bare heels into the barrel of his mount.

The troop stung to desperation by the spectacle, waited not for orders, but rushed for their horses and swept after him in a mad, disorganized charge.

The onrushing torrent of horses and men and steel led by the strange looking figure in white struck terror to the souls of the Sioux and they turned to escape, but raging death swept into their midst and engulfed them in a cloud of blue.

WHEN it was over the Captain rode in search of Sergt. McGinnis. He was lying prostrate across the body of the chief, whom he had sought.

The skull of the Sioux was cleft to the chin by the saber of McGinnis, but his own life's blood was ebbing from a jagged wound in his breast. The Captain lifted his head to his knee and held a canteen to his lips.

"I've—found him—Captain," he gasped. "Turn him—over—and you'll—see."

With his foot the captain turned over the Sioux. One ear was missing and a hideous scar extended along one side of his face.

Sergt. McGinnis looked up and smiled through the mists of death.

"Thank God, sir, my horse didn't stumble this time."

FORTY DAYS in THE CAFFEIN SQUAD

Uncle Sam drinks twenty-five billion cups of coffee annually

Experiments at Columbia University with sixteen persons, young and old, develops that caffein produces accurate typewriting; that if you weigh more than 110 pounds it doesn't affect you; that large doses make for nervous irritability.

TWENTY-FIVE BILLION (25,000,000,000) cups of coffee are consumed in the United States every year, experts estimate.

This amount contains approximately sixty-two billion five hundred million (62,500,000,000) grains of caffein, the drug which is the chief constituent of coffee.

Some authorities say the coffee habit is destroying the efficiency of the nation. Others contend that coffee is a food—at the worst a mild stimulant.

Tea has escaped a great deal of the abuse that has been directed at coffee. The popular opinion is that tea is a parlor drink and in killing power bears the same relation to coffee that a cigarette does to a machine gun. Experimenters say, however, that the average cup of black tea contains as much caffein as the average demitasse. The average glass of iced tea contains 2 grains of caffein, while a cup of coffee will assay 2.5 grains of the drug.

TO discover whether caffein is making the people of the United States stout or thin, healthy or anemic, alert or dull, Prof. H. L. Hollingsworth of Columbia University has made elaborate experiments.

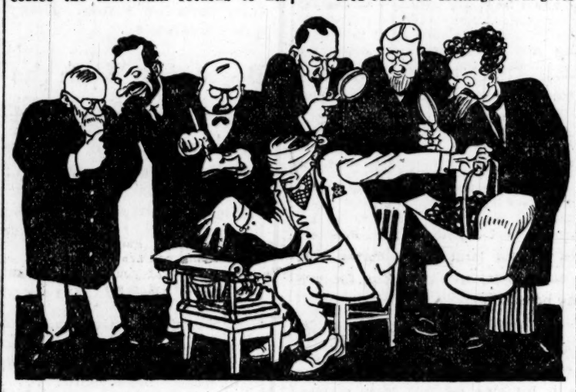

He took 16 persons and fed them capsules of caffein for 40 days.

Both sexes and a wide range of age were represented on the squad. Children and old men were included in the cast selected by Prof. Hollingsworth to play parts as directed by him.

The caffein was administered to the members of the squad at irregular intervals and in varying quantities. Some went through the entire 40 days without caffein—but they didn't know it. Each received a capsule every day. Some of the capsules were loaded with as much as six grains of caffein—the amount contained in six cups of coffee. Other were filled with sugar of milk, which possesses the deadly qualities of a charlotte russe.

The 16 spent nearly all their waking time in the 40 days in the special psychological laboratory fitted up for them. They were busy every minute of the day. When Prof. Hollingsworth wasn't calling them up to take their capsules he was putting them through all the tests he and other psychologists could conceive.

They would typewrite a few pages, take a capsule and typewrite some more—all under the eye of Prof. Hollingsworth. They picked out colors, answered questions suddenly put to them, tapped their fingers as many times as they could in a minute, were blindfolded and asked to tell which weighed the more, a coal bucket or a dictionary, and on dull afternoons irrepressible assistants with notebooks stuck compasses on the backs of the subjects' necks and demanded to know whether one point or two was sticking into the flesh, and, if there were two, how far they were apart.

Putting them through all sorts of tests.

The amount of quality of their sleep were measured.

MORE than 76,000 tests were recorded and more than 800 efficiency curves showed the effects of the caffein capsules. These experiments, Prof. Hollingsworth says, show that Caffein appears to relieve fatigue and increase efficiency.

The smaller the person the greater the stimulation. Fat men usually are only slightly affected by a single cup of coffee a day.

The stimulating effect of caffein is not followed by secondary depression, as is the case with alcohol. After the stimulation of a cup of coffee the individual returns to his normal efficiency, but does not fall below it.

In the case of typewriting, all doses increase speed and larger doses decrease it, but all doses produce increased accuracy.

Four grains of caffein a day (a cup of coffee averages 2.5 grains) apparently has no bad effect upon persons who weigh more than 110 pounds. Larger doses produce frequent nervousness, headaches and irritability.

EVERY effort was made by Prof. Hollingsworth to make these tests accurate. After the 40 days, he says, all the 16 reported a general improvement in health, spirits and general efficiency. He explains that this improvement may have been caused by the regular regime of life followed by the "Sacrificing Sixteen" during the 40 days.

During the experiment and for 10 days before the tests began they were not allowed to touch any drug. After-dinner cigars were barred and so were brandied cherries.

When the 40-day experimental period began the 16 were divided into smaller squads and given regular doses. Some took their caffein in the morning, some at night and some in the middle of the afternoon.

This systematic mix-up procedure was adopted, in the first place, so that the caffein subjects should have normal days, which could be compared with their drug days. In the second place it was necessary that the caffein squad be compared with the squad that took no caffein at all. Moreover, it was necessary that no person ever knew whether any given day were a drug day or a normal day, except in so far as he might perceive the effects on himself as the day wore on. The general idea was to eliminate such important causes of variability as interest, excitement and suggestion.

All 16 subjects were tested repeatedly throughout the day with steadiness tests, tapping tests, co-ordination tests, calculation, perception, discrimination, reaction, judgment, association and a number of others. The amount and quality of their health and general feelings each day.

AMONG the many results thus figured out Prof. Hollingsworth gives the following as being of interest in regard to the relation between the use of caffein and general health and efficiency:

"In the tests for speed in tapping, perception, calculation, association, reading and logical thinking," he says, "caffein produces a marked stimulation appearing to relieve fatigue and increase efficiency. The amount of the stimulation depends on the size of the dose and on the body weight of the individual. The larger the dose (up to six grains of caffein alkaloid, the largest dose used, and about the amount contained in four cups of coffee) and the lighter the individual in avoirdupois, the greater the stimulation. This stimulation is not followed by secondary depression. The individual returns to his normal efficiency, but does not fall below it.

The "co-ordination tests and discrimination tests also show stimulation in performance, but in these cases stimulation leads often to false reactions. These are processes in which stimulation does not make for efficiency.

"In the case of sleep, doses of one to four grains do not produce appreciable disturbance except in a few individual cases of people whose body weight is small. Larger doses produce marked sleep impairment with some subjects, while others show complete resistance. The effects are greatest when the dose is taken on an empty stomach or on successive days. It does not depend on the age, sex or previous caffein habits of the individual, but varies inversely with body weight.

"Those subjects who had given up the use of caffeinic beverages do not report any craving for the drinks as such, but several report annoyance at not having some kind of warm drink with breakfast. Up to the time of the four-grain doses the health reports of the caffein squads do not differ from those of the control squads, except in the case of individuals weighing about 110 pounds; but after doses above four grains there is frequent report of nervousness, headache and irritability. Two individuals gained in weight, two lost and the rest showed no change."

IN the opinion of Prof. Hollingsworth, many of the unfavorable results commonly attributed to the use of tea and coffee undoubtedly come from the non-caffein ingredients in these beverages. The only one of these ingredients which has been shown to be deleterious is tannin, which is often present in tea and sometimes in coffee, especially if the brew has been boiled or allowed to stand.

Caffein has been "investigated" on an average once a year in the last quarter of a century. The results of the studies preceding Prof. Hollingsworth's may be summed up in the conclusions of two of the most eminent authorities in this field, Messrs. Kraepelin of Germany and Rivers of England. Kraepelin says: "We know that tea and coffee increase our mental effiency in a definite way, and we use them as a means of overcoming mental fatigue * * * In large amounts, and in the cases of sensitive persons, their ingestion delays sleep. On the other hand, the motor disturbance, the tendency to bolster ous and silly conduct, the peculiar emphoria and the exaggerated feeling of strength characteristic of alcoholic intoxication, never result from the use of tea and coffee."

Rivers confirms this general conclusion: "The general practical conclusion to be drawn from the experiments which I have recorded and from those of previous workers is that caffein increases the capacity for both muscular and mental work, this stimulating action persisting for a considerable time after the substance has been taken without there being any evidence, with moderate doses, of reaction leading to diminished capacity for work, the substance thus really diminishing and not merely obscuring the effects of fatigue."

Caffein appears to relieve fatigue.

Unexampled Courage.

HE was the small son of a bishop and his mother was teaching him the meaning of courage.

"Supposing," she said, "there were 12 boys in one bedroom, and 11 got into bed at once, while the other knelt down to say his prayers, that boy would show courage."

"Oh," said the young hopeful, "I know something that would be more courageous than that. Supposing there were 12 bishops in one bedroom, and one got into bed without saying his prayers!"—Detroit Times.

TEN MINUTE TALES OF LIFE AS IT IS

BY NIXOLA GREELEY-SMITH.

FIRST PROBLEM—Why Did She Forgive Him?

"Let me not to the marriage of true minds admit impediment"—

UP to the moment when she found the letter Belle Harley considered herself a very fortunate woman. She was fond of her baby, quite resigned to her husband and passionately in love with her fame.

The letter was, of course, just the usual document that a vixenish fate throws in the way of wives. Since his marriage Harley had written plays and more and more the necessities of his new profession had brought him in contact with the sort of woman wro wrotes the sort of letter to which wives object.

I couldn't help smiling when she gave it to me to read. But my smile shriveled quickly in the torrid blast of her highly appropriate tragedy mood. Still, anybody would have smiled. Though we know that neither George Washington nor Napoleon was an infallible speller, most of us prefer phonetic morals to simplified orthography, and the child of Nature who had written a love letter to Mrs. Harley's husband had spelled love with a u.

"It was precisely this misplaced 'u' which seemed to aggregate the outrage of Harley's dislocated affections.

"Think of it!" his wife exclaimed. "He prefers a horrible, ignorant creature, who can't even spell a one-syllable word, to me! ME!" she repeated with a shrilling voice.

The prolonged accent on the personal pronoun was more than usually justified. For Belle Harley was one of the most successful writers. It was her marriage to Harley which had revealed her to herself and the public as a writer of witty and highly popular criticism which she illustrated with delightful sketches. As Nell Chowning she had been merely an ambitious but unsuccessful artist, and Harley when she met him was the poorly paid editor of a fashion magazine. But just as the fusion of two very ordinary chemical elements may produce a third, rare and radiant and apparently unrelated to its very ordinary constituents, so the marriage of these two had resulted in the creation of a third and gloriously successful person. Not the little Harley, for he was just the usual combination of charm and exasperation we call a baby. The infant prodigy in the Harley family was the wholly literary personality of "Belle Harley," the name under which the mediocre artist who had married the obscure magazinist had become known throughout the United States.

Now with flushed face and hard brown eyes damming imminent tears she continued to discuss that dreadful phonetic love letter.

"Of course, I shall divorce him," she proclaimed furiously. "I can hardly wait for him to come home to tell him what I think of him. And when I have flung this letter in his face I'll take the baby and go away forever!"

"Have you thought of the consequences?" I asked. "Have you thought of the baby? Have you a right to deprive him of a father? Are you sure that divorce proves any more than suicide, solves any more? Isn't it just shutting the door on the evil that you have, to open it upon the others you don't know about? You know the worst of Harley. Can you say as much about another man? Think of all the squabbles, the disillusions, the despairs which would have to begin all over again and be lived through before you had found the tolerance you felt for Harley. And then perhaps there would be another letter. The spelling might be more conventional, but the meaning would be the same!"

"You're talking rot and you know it," exclaimed Belle Harley viciously; but she looked as though she were half willing to clutch one or the other of my little straws of platitude.

"Only because I thought you preferred rot. Most women do," I replied. "You know very well you can't get along without Harley. Even if you divorce him, you would have to marry someone else."

An expression of genuine horror crossed Mrs. Harley's face.

"You don't think I'm that kind of woman," she ejaculated. "Why, men are nothing to me. Less than nothing. Why, considered simply as men, Harley included, they bore me dreadfully."

Sometimes when a woman won't understand, the swift use of the knife is kind.

"I don't mean that Harley as a man is necessary to you," I answered. "I refer to him as the better half of your fame."

She blanched. She glared. She assumed an expression of mingled stupidity and resentment that didn't—couldn't belong together.

"What do you mean?" she asked coldly.

"Only this, Belle, that everybody except the public knows that Harley writes the text for 'Belle Harley's' pictures. Are you going to destroy Belle Harley's fame and future for a miserable chorus girl that spells 'love' with a 'u'? The court can give you a decree separating the actual YOU and the actual Harley. But who shall divorce your pictures and Harley's text? You know very well that you sign your name to those articles, but—they're Harley's in the sight of heaven! And you might search New York and London and not find so perfect a literary union as this unacknowledged marriage of his brain to your art. If you want to commit literary hari kari, why, divorce Harley; but no woman divorces a man unless she loves him. Be true to your fame as long as Harley is. Don't divorce him till his charming style finds another affinity. Burn that letter. Here, I'll light the gas log so you can do it now."

I lighted the gas logs. Belle held the letter in her hand for a long time. Then she spoke and I realized that no word of hers would ever betray her husband's mute complicity in her success. Her speech, in fact, reverted to the first argument I had urged against a divorce.

"Perhaps you are right," she said slowly. "There are claims higher than those of mere self. There are considerations more worthy than those of self love and vengeance. I must try to forgive Harley for the sake of my child. And of course I can't let him know that I forgive him. This ends it!"

And she threw the crumpled misspelled love letter into the blazing gas log.

* * * * *

Why did she forgive him?

Romantic solution: Because she loved him so.

Popular solution: For the sake of her child.

High-brow solution: To preserve the social unit—the family.

Possible other solutions: Because she didn't care, because she was merely looking for an excuse to forgive him, or because she preferred her literary fame to her personal honor.

Reflections of a Bachelor Girl

Recorded for the Post-Dispatch

By HELEN ROWLAND

LACK of jealousy is no sign of lack of love in a man. A woman in love will be jealous of a store dummy; but the hardest thing on earth for a man to believe is that any woman on whom he chooses to bestow himself could desire anything better.

When a woman tries to make a man see the folly of his ways, he merely closes his eyes and waits for her to finish, as he would wait for a train to go by.

Oh, wad some power the giftie gie us
To see our men-folk when they don't see us.

A man never will understand why a woman carries three or four perfectly good purses on her chatelaine, and yet keeps all her money where she can't get at it.

Every man's "ideal": The girl who "adores" Maude Adams, sings "The Rosary," plays Mendelssohn's "Spring Song," reads Robert Chambers, does raffia work, uses violet extract, and always exclaims, "How fascinating," whether she is talking of a necktie, a sunset or Westminster Abbey.

The Lord made many colors—the colors of the sky and the color of the rose. But black He reserved for coquettes, widows—and the devil.

WAYS OF REDUCING THE HIGH COST OF LIVING

THE report of the Committee on Markets, Prices and Costs of the New York State Food Investigating Commission makes valuable suggestions along economical lines for lowering the cost of living. It has been demonstrated that about one-half of the prices of foods is due to the actual cost of handling and transporting the commodities from the producer to the consumer. The producer receives practically 45 per cent of the retail price of his produce. It is estimated that 25 per cent of the present retail prices of foodstuff can be saved through the merging of wholesale and retail business through larger retail stores, department stores or chain stores, the Medical Review.

This reduction could be effected a better standard of food could be purchased for the same expenditure of money required at present or the same standard of food could be secured at a reduced outlay, leaving the balance for the securing of better clothing or improved shelter. At the present time 75 per cent to 80 per cent of the families with an income under $1,200 spend for food. The more expensive cereals and vegetables and the cheaper cuts of meat, the less expensive cereals and vegetables and the best way of preparing the same so as to make them both desirable and appetizing."

Every girl is a potential home-maker, but her education is carefully arranged on the basis of her becoming a professional woman. The elementary schools in aiming to prepare children for their life work on a disciplinary, cultural or vocational basis are not adjusted to the needs of the majority of girls, who are to spend the greater part of their lives as the spenders of small or moderate incomes.

The cost of living becomes abnormally high when judgment, founded on knowledge, does not supervise the purchase and preparation of foods. The cultural content of a course on foods and cookery makes it a valuable subject for the elementary schools curriculum, enabling a child, as Dr. John Dewey asserts, "to see within his daily work all there is in it of large and human significance."

WILSON'S FRIENDS THINK BRYAN SURE TO ENTER CABINET

Opinion Is Post of Secretary of State Will Be Offered and He Will Accept.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.—It is the general opinion among Gov. Wilson's friends in Congress that he will offer to William J. Bryan the post of Secretary of State and that Bryan will accept.

A most spirited contest for another place in the Cabinet is being made in the West—in the public land states—the position being that of Secretary of the Interior, now held by Walter L. Fisher.

The conservationists are taking a hand in this fight. They oppose the selection of a man from the public land states. They think that Wilson should name a man who will conserve the natural resources.

There are about a dozen active candidates for this place. John D. Phelan of California, Charles G. Heifner, Hugh C. Wallace and George Turner of Washington State, Joseph N. Teal and W. R. King of Oregon, Edwin L. Norris of Montana, John E. Osborn of Wyoming, Albert S. Burleson of Texas and Josephus Daniels of North Carolina are mentioned in connection with the post.

Californians Want Phelan.

Phelan is supported by California Democrats. He was Mayor of San Francisco, and is prominent in party affairs. Heifner of Washington was a Wilson leader before the Baltimore convention. Senator George E. Chamberlain of Oregon spoke to Wilson about Teal and King Monday at Trenton. Gov. Norris of Montana has been indorsed by the Democratic leaders of his State. Wallace, who spends much of his time in Washington City, but maintains a residence at Tacoma, married a daughter of the late Chief Justice Melville Fuller. He was a Democratic leader in Washington in the days of Grover Cleveland. He gave $5000 to the Wilson campaign.

Turner was United States Senator from Washington at one time. Osborn was Governor of Wyoming when the State was Democratic. Democrats and Republicans indorse him.

Conservationists Are Firm.

The attitude of the conservationists, which almost amounts to a threat, has made Congressmen who are close to Gov. Wilson believe that he will name a Southern man for the post. Burleson is being talked of as a man who can take care of the Department of the Interior. He comes from a State where the Federal Government has not had anything to do with the public lands. On the other hand, the visit of Senator Chamberlain to Mr. Wilson is just the beginning of a Western movement upon the President-elect.

MEN ARRESTED FOR DR. KNABE MURDER RELEASED ON BAIL

Dean of Veterinary College and Undertaker Deny Connection With Crime.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 1.—Dr. William B. Craig, dean of the Indiana Veterinary College, arrested as principal, was released on $15,000 bail, and Alonzo M. Ragsdale, an undertaker, arrested as accessory, was released on $10,000 bail, following indictments charging the murder of Dr. Helen Knabe, the pathologist, in her apartments in this city, on October 23, 1911.

The indictments may be credited to the persistent work of women of the State, who banded together to solve the mystery of the woman's death.

Early in the investigation the police announced the opinion that Dr. Knabe had killed herself. The women raised $2500, employed detectives and last June presented a case to the grand jury, which did not prove strong enough to warrant an indictment. Then they set to work again. The present indictments resulted.

Publicity has not yet been given to the evidence, the supposed motive or the means employed to accomplish the murder, but repeated rumor, pieced out by the terms of the indictment, furnish outlines for a circumstantial theory. Dr. Craig and Dr. Knabe had become so friendly and were so often seen together that their friends believed they intended to marry.

Visited Dr. Craig's House.

Not long before the murder Dr. Craig became attentive to Katherine Fleming, a wealthy woman. Witnesses are said to have been found of a visit by Dr. Knabe to Dr. Craig's house two nights before the murder. A quarrel is said to have occurred at that time.

Mrs. Tennant, Dr. Craig's housekeeper, is quoted in a report by a detective as having said that Dr. Knabe called at supper time. She declined to eat, saying she was not hungry. Afterward she and Dr. Craig withdrew to another room and disputed over their plans to marry, and Dr. Knabe burst into tears and cried, according to the detective's report from Mrs. Tennant:

"You can continue to practice and I can continue to practice," to which Dr. Craig replied:

"I will have none of this," and, taking Dr. Knabe by the arm, led her out of the house.

Saw Man in the Alley.

Harry W. Haskett, who has charge of a billiard hall, said he started home about 11 o'clock on the night of the murder and walked along Delaware street. As he passed the apartment house in which Dr. Knabe lived a man stepped out from an alley. Haskett is said to have identified a photograph of Dr. Craig as that of the man he saw.

One of the peculiarities of the case was that, although a deep incision had been made in the neck, the body when found the next morning, looked as if the head had been nearly severed. There had been little outward bleeding. The wound was described as a "sheep nick," such as is inflicted by butchers when they wish to slaughter and avoid spurting of blood. In support of the self-destruction theory the police said Dr. Knabe knew enough to give herself such a wound. But a detective decided that it could not have been self-inflicted.

The disappearance of a kimono and other articles of light wear puzzled all the investigators. This clothing was finally traced to Ragsdale, who lived in the same apartment with Dr. Knabe. The kimono had been recently washed in a chemical solution. Tests by analysis brought out blood stains in a corner of it. The garment had also been cut, as with a knife. Ragsdale said the clothing had been given him to throw away.

Deny Knowledge of Crime.

Dr. Knabe was well and favorably known here. She had come to this country when a girl and was a German immigrant. Her industry and talents pushed her rapidly ahead, enabled her to obtain a good general education, and when she chose to follow medicine as a profession she rose steadily to wide and lucrative practice.

Dr. Craig is about 40, a widower, and has lived here for 15 years. He came from Scotland.

Ragsdale has a wife and five children and is 58. Neither of the accused men expressed surprise at his arrest, rumor having been free of late with their names. They deny all knowledge of the crime and say they look forward confidently to acquittal.

PIMPLY? WELL, DON'T

People Notice It. Drive Them With Olive Tablets.

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pimples will vanish after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Nothing ever cleansed the blood, the bowels and the liver like Olive Tablets.

Olive Tablets are the only successful substitute for calomel—they cleanse the bowels; there's never any sickness or pain after taking them.

Olive Tablets do all that calomel does and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with "a dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are made of pure vegetable compounds mixed with olive oil.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints, and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result.

Try them. Take one nightly for a week. Then look at yourself in the glass and see how you feel. 10c and 25c per box.

Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion, says he is in better condition for his bout with Oliver Kirk of St. Louis before members of the Future City A. C. this afternoon, than on his last appearance here, Dec. 12, when he defeated Tommy Dixon of Kansas City.

Jimmy Dunn, the former boxer and now manager of Kilbane, prepared his protege for the bout with Kirk. Dunn, a hard worker himself, forced the king of the feathers to follow a speedy pace in the preliminary work and as a result, he says he is in the proverbial pink of condition. Kilbane said he would probably tip the beam at about 122¾ pounds.

The bout affords Kirk a great opportunity to create a name for himself. He added much to his reputation recently when he made Abe Attell, Kilbane's predecessor as title holder, quit in the sixth round of a scheduled eight-round tilt at the Jai Alai.

On that occasion Kirk gave Attell a pretty good lacing. Kirk has also scored victories over Dixon and Tommy Sullivan, since turning professional. The local boy reports that he has had no trouble in trimming himself down to the required 122 pounds. He'll weigh in at that notch about 2 o'clock.

Kilbane's Last Bout Here.

Kilbane hasn't fought since he defeated Dixon at the Future City A. C. He had been resting, until he started preparing for the bout with Kirk. The champion has no other bouts in the near future but his manager is preparing a jaunt to the coast, which will start about the first of April.

In California he expects to book about six matches for the title-holder. One of them has practically been cinched. It is with Johnny Dundee, the New Yorker, who has been cutting a wide swath in the East.

According to Kilbane, no negotiations have been opened for a bout with George Kirkwood, the St. Louisan, who is now on the coast. By Easterners Kirkwood is believed to have an excellent chance to cut down the champion. He is growing heavy and may be prevented from meeting Kilbane for that [illegible] The Cleveland boy has made it [illegible] for all his opponents to come [illegible] but limit a few

UP AGAINST IT.

NOTHING can more show the desperation of Miller Huggins and the St. Louis Cardinals than the signing of Larry McLean to play with the St. Louis National League club. Why, even the Browns declined him with thanks.

HUGGINS IS DESPERATE.

THE loss of Bresnahan and the fact that Wingo has developed a severe attack of holdout has left the Cards leader in a serious quandary. In fact, without a catcher worth the name.

Talk about paying dearly for your whistle, ask Mrs. Britton what it has cost her already, and will cost her in the future, to get rid of former President Steininger and Roger Bresnahan?

Some expensiveness to these whims.

But we must have 'em.

McLEAN MAY HELP.

LARRY McLEAN, however, may prove a life-saver for the Cards. Larry is a bad actor, a good catcher and a great hitter. Problem: How to reconcile the three. It is admitted on every hand that Cincinnati's various managers were not equal to the task. But it may be noted that Larry came nearer to the ideal, his last try, than ever before. In fact, it was not until near the close of the season that the big 'un laid down on his teammates.

Next season perhaps he may be able to ride that bucking broncho, the water wagon, to the end of the schedule. If he does, Huggins will not miss Bresnahan's catching at all. But these new tricks were ever hard to fasten on an old dog. We have our doubts about the present instance.

WHAT? MORE SYNDICATE BALL?

THERE'S a fine suspicion of another chance at syndicate baseball in the Locke-Philadelphia deal. Locke declares that Barney Dreyfuss and the other Pittsburg owners are not back of his efforts to obtain possession of the Quakers. If we believe him it is because the trial at the syndicate game given by Charles Webb Murphy and Charles Taft resulted rather disastrously for the parties concerned, and not from a belief in the innate sense of baseball righteousness owned by Dreyfus, Harris & Co.

And, furthermore, they deny the deal so strongly that we are inclined to think they do protest too much.

But what's the use borrowing trouble? If there is any mysterious door to this problem, we haven't yet found the key to its Locke.

McGRAW TO TRY AGAIN.

JOHNNY McGRAW broke up a prevailing belief that existed in baseball and other sports to the effect that the contestant off to a great start is sure to come back before the race ends. Pacemakers, in other words, are seldom winners of the race.

Last year McGraw sent his club to the field for the opening game in splendid shape. It outclassed every team but Cincinnati early in the game, and the pitching it received then from Rube Marquard cinched its pennant. BUT FOR THAT START McGRAW MIGHT HAVE LOST THE PENNANT!

This year McGraw again intends to go the theory that a game won at the start of the season does just as much to cop the flag as one taken at its end. Every effort will be strained to send the team to the field in midseason form.

A BAD POLICY.

If this should happen, particularly of the club's pitchers, it is safe to predict right now that the Pirates and not the Giants will win the flag. The Giants last year were cracking sadly for two months and their slovenly play in the world's series indicates how badly the club was off form at the end of the campaign.

The whole trouble is that athletes cannot stay on edge for six months, even in so moderate manner as baseball men are asked to. They invariably go stale and lose form. It is therefore better to be a coming team than a waning one, for, if it comes down to a final battle or two, the improved club will have the best chance to nose out.

McGraw may have his front running outfit—the one which hits its stride in June is the one that will stand the best chance of the pennant.

Browns Will Book Games With Waco and Giants During Training Season

Present indications are that the Browns will have a busy stay in Waco, Tex. Besides a proposed seven-game series with the champions of John McGraw, which probably will be closed when McGraw comes here, Jan. 12, another spring series has been offered. Col. Hedges Tuesday received a challenge from the Waco (Texas League) team and it is not unlikely that he will accept the terms. This will give Stovall's kids a game every day they are in the Lone Star State.

Ground Keeper Fabian of Sportsman's Park will go to Waco soon to prepare a practice field for Stovall's men. The Browns are not to use the regular Waco grounds, but Col. Hedges has an agreement with the townsfolk that if the second park is not suitable the Browns can shift into the Texas Leaguers' quarters. In that case the Browns would have to share quarters with the home club, which isn't a very satisfactory arrangement.

The Giants will be the first squad to migrate southward. McGraw's yannigan gang will mobilize in St. Louis Feb. 20 and start for Marlin Springs. The regulars, under command of Christy Mathewson, will pass through the first week in March. Wilbert Robinson will go South with the kids to assist Little Napoleon.

They always come back for more! That's a true saying in baseball. We only have to remember that Mike Donlin quit—and came back. So did Jimmy Callahan. Now Fred Clarke threatens to play after one year's lay-off. And likewise comes Dr. Scanlon, the former Brooklyn pitcher, who asks reinstatement to perform for the Phillies. In this connection it will be interesting to see how faithfully Vin Campbell and Benny Meyers, two St. Louisans, who promise to quit in 1913, regard their promise.

The release of Toots Schultz, the Phillies' college-pitcher, brings to mind the fact that Mr. Schultz was one of the highest priced debutantes that ever entered the big ring. He signed with Doolin's team in the spring of 1911 for two years at $3500 per season. The Philadelphia club paid out $7000 and got nothing in return. Shultz was a demon in the morning workouts, but he didn't pitch one good game during the championship season. He was wild. Toots was graduated from Pennsylvania U., where he starred on the college nine.

Manager Joe Kelley of the Toronto (International League) team has written Col. Hedges of the Browns offering to relieve the local club of some promising recruits. Inasmuch as Toronto is a farm for the New York Nationals, Hedges will have nothing to do with Kelley. Toronto now has a prize pitcher—Dick Rudolph—for sale. Joe Tinker thought he had Rudolph landed for the Reds But now the deal is off and Kelley probably will pass the hurling phenom over to McGraw.

Mike Donlin is pleased with his transfer to Philadelphia, even though the Pirates do look like a sure thing bet for the N. L. pennant. The reason for this jubilation on the part of the actor is that by playing in Philadelphia Mike will be within [illegible] distance of New York. During his [illegible] in Pittsburg last year Mike always [illegible] Gotham over Sunday. He meets Ed Kennedy, while Archie McLeod and Tom Geraghty will mix in the semi-windup.

The opening bout goes on at 8 o'clock. Harry S. Sharpe will referee.

According to Jimmy Dunn, Kilbane's manager, the boxing game in Cleveland, the home of the champion, is temporarily closed because the Mayor of the town claims the laws do not permit prize fighting.

The clamping of the "lid" on the game in Cleveland, however, is not worrying Kilbane. Although the recognized champion of the world, he has performed a few bouts in his home [illegible] of Napoleon don't appre[illegible]

INNISFAILS WILL BE STRONGER FOR BIG GAME TODAY

St. Louis Soccer Stars Will Oppose Howard and Bullough Team.

By Clarence F. Lloyd.

THE Howard and Bullough soccer team of Pawtucket, R. I., regarded as the strongest eleven in New England, makes its debut in St. Louis this afternoon. The Easterners will meet the Innisfails in the first of a series of three games with local elevens at Sportsman's Park, Grand avenue and Dodier street, starting at 2:30 o'clock.

The visitors arrived in St. Louis last night, after the long ride from Rhode Island, and before tumbling into their beds expressed the opinion that they would do better than the West Hudsons of Harrison, N. J., who won from the Innisfails, 4—1, tied the Business Men, 1—1, and were beaten by the St. Leos, 4—2.

The New Englanders are considered as formidable if not better than the West Hudsons. In fact, they believe they have a better chance over winning a majority or all of the games here than the West Hudsons because of their superior weight and aggressive tactics. Like the St. Leos, they play a hard, rushing game.

Foley to Make Change.

Manager Foley will show a changed lineup over the one that made such a miserable showing against the West Hudsons a week ago. He announces that he will turn loose from Goalkeeper Jack Tully. In his place today will be Tom Irvine.

Foley has decided to use Bart Holland, one of his regulars, at fullback, instead of borrowing "Tate" Brady, who played last week, from the Columbus Club. Holland will play alongside Ed Copley, whose injured foot has mended, and will enable him to put up his real game.

Frank Smith, formerly of the Columbus Club, is now a regular member of the Innisfails and will play inside right instead of "Chuck" O'Berta, who is very ill. The remainder of the lineup will be the same as opposed the West Hudsons.

Players Due for Release.

Foley is said to have informed his players that there will be wholesale changes in the team unless the men play improved football over their game Christmas day. They displayed no team work and the West Hudsons had no trouble in winning.

The announcement in Chicago that today's game in the Windy City between the West Hudsons and Pullmans would involve the championship of America has created quite a bit of comment among local soccer followers. For several seasons it had been the custom of the St. Louis Soccer League to bring down Chicago teams for the holiday games.

The Chicagoans invariably proved so easy that the games ceased to be attractive and for that reason the local league went after the Eastern teams. Just why the Pullmans should claim the Western championship is difficult for local soccerites to understand. They are pulling for the West Hudsons to defeat the Pullmans. That would insure the St. Leos recognition. The West Hudsons are badly crippled, however, and it would not be surprising if they come to grief in Chicago.

It is rumored that Tim Cavanagh, owner of Athletic Park, may not permit the St. Louis Soccer League teams to return to his park after the holiday games. He is displeased because the managers shifted the games to Sportsman's Park. In the event that Cavanagh refuses to let the kickers play at his park, it wouldn't be surprising if the remaining games of the season are booked at either Sportsman's Park or Robison Field. It is said the soccerites can enter the Vandeventer avenue yard without any trouble.

LEADERS WILL MEET IN SUNDAY SCHOOL LEAGUE

Three games are scheduled for the teams in the Sunday School Basket Ball League at Louisiana Hall Wednesday evening, starting at 7:45 o'clock. A new leader is sure to be on top after tonight's round, as the Centenary and Tyler Place teams, who are tied for first place, are to meet. Each team has played and won three games. Compton Baptist meets King's Highway Presbyterian and Scruggs M. E. plays Union M. E. in the other games.

Locke Declares No Pirate Money Is Back of Him

Pittsburg's Owners Not Interested in Purchase of the Philadelphia Club.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 1.—Will H. Locke, secretary of the Pittsburg baseball club, is preparing to move his household to Philadelphia. His own statement is that he'll have control of the Philadelphia Nationals before the end of next week. Locke denies that Mike Donlin is to be manager and says Charlie Dooin will remain where he is.

Gov. John K. Tener is not financially interested, but Locke says the Governor made the deal possible by swinging certain Philadelphia capital into line for him. Had it not been for Tener, Locke says, he would not have been able to make the deal.

John P. Harris of Pittsburg put no money into the Phillies because he is a stockholder in the Pittsburg club. The same is true of Oliver S. Hershman of Pittsburg, who offered to finance the transfer for Locke. By keeping them out, Locke has prevented all protest against syndicate ball. District Attorney William A. Blakeley of Pittsburg is one of Locke's associates. Blakeley and Gov. Tener are intimate friends.

Who Puts Up the "Dough?"

"My cousin, former Police Commissioner Baker of New York, will go into the deal with me or stay out, as I desire," said Locke. "If I need his money he'll come in. Philadelphia capital is largely interested in this deal. Gov. Tener is not putting any money into the thing, but it was largely through his efforts in my behalf that I was able to get the club. He brought me in the Philadelphia capital that I never could have reached. The Governor has never lost his interest in the game, and for a long time it has been his aim to have the Philadelphia club owned by Pennsylvania capital.

"I made the statement a few days ago that if I got control of the club I would be in complete control and that not one share of stock would be owned by any man at present connected with baseball. I am disposing of my stock in the Pittsburg club. The last tinge of syndicate ball will be removed from the Phillies when I take charge.

"I have lived all my life in Pittsburg and in many ways I'll be sorry to leave. Still, for a long time I have wanted to own a baseball team, and now my ambition is about to be realized."

TEN-MILE CHAMPION IS WINNER IN GOTHAM EVENT

NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—Harry J. Smith, the ten-mile national Amateur Athletic Union champion, made a run-away race of the three-mile invitation handicap at the Seventy-first Regiment Armory from scratch last night in 14:46 2-5. Louis Scott of Paterson, N. J., another scratch man finished nearly 200 yards behind the winner. Hannes Koehmininen, the Finnish distance champion was unable to compete owing to stomach trouble.

Abel R. Kiviat, of the Irish-American Athletic Club won the special half-mile scratch run by ten yards from M. Glea of Buffalo in 2:01 2-5. M. W. Sheppard of the Irish-American Athletic Club, having quit in the final lap.

PALZER'S FATHER WAGERS SON WILL BEAT McCARTY

OSSIAN, Ia., Jan. 1.—Henry Palzer, father of Al Palzer, who today will battle Luther McCarty in the elimination white heavyweight championship, last night wagered $250 that his son would defeat the conqueror of Jim Flynn. The wager was made with a Chicago sporting enthusiast.

Hopes Who Fight for Title Today Not in Jeff's Class

Betting Is at Even Money

Palzer and McCarty, Both Lusty Young Giants, Have Power and Stamina to Put Up a Hammer-and-Tongs Battle.

By Robert Edgren.

A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

This afternoon will see the most important heavyweight match of the year, fought in Tom McCarey's Los Angeles arena. "Uncle Tom" McCarey is to give the winner, whether it's Palzer or McCarthy, a belt emblematic of "the championship."

And the winner will call himself champion of the world.

True, there are no other white heavyweights who have a better right than McCarty and Palzer to toy with that championship thing. But there are several other pretty fair men dubbing around the country, and perhaps some of them will take exception to the arbitrary title-taking out in Los Angeles. In this case it is to be hoped that the winner of the affair will not be inclined to "get the easy money" and pose around various theatrical circuits while the popularity lasts.

It would be hard to pick out two men better matched than McCarty and Palzer. Either of them in that belt will look very much like a real champion. But I wonder what Jeffries, sitting at the ringside, will think when he recalls the champions of his day—clever Corbett, crafty Fitzsimmons and himself, the great Jeffries, who, in his time, looked like and fought like the greatest of all world's heavyweight kings.

Men Lack Experience.

It isn't that either Palzer or McCarty lacks potential class. In fact, either of them might be another Jeffries, possibly, with enough experience. But compared to Corbett, when he beat the fa-ing champion of the world, John L. Sullivan, or to the marvelous fighting boxer, Fitzsimmons, who fought his way up through the middleweight and heavyweight classes, working out a ring record of over 300 battles, they are absolute novices. Jeff himself is the only man who ever fought himself into the heavyweight title in as few battles as McCarty and Palzer can point to. And Jeffries was a better man, physically, than either of them. Bombardier Wells' punches never would have sent young Jim Jeffries, the iron-bodied boilermaker, to the floor. Neither would Jess Willard, a lanky novice, with a good right uppercut, have been able to stand Jeffries upon his heels and stop his rushes.

One thing, however, both Palzer and McCarty possess in a superior degree. That is aggressiveness. Jeffries was willing to walk straight into anything and everything and he often did. But he isn't a tearing-in fighter. Palzer is.

O'Rourke's big blond Iowa farmer knows the way to fight. He isn't fond of studying the game and working out ways to reach his man. He simply pushes his way in, and his fighting knack consists of nothing more than a strong determination to hit back when he is hit. He hits blindly, often missing, sometimes striking low, as he did in his bouts with Kaufman and with Wells, sometimes rushing in with head instinctively lowered to take punches where his skull is thickest, instead of his chin. But he is always hitting and when he does manage to land, there's weight behind his arm.

Kaufman Couldn't Hurt Him.

In the fight with Kaufman Palzer received some hard punches, but he surprised big Al several times by coming back so hard that Al couldn't get away from his counters. These blows of Palzer's are effective because the man attacking him is still within range when the big farmer's fists come over. Often he is still in the act of striking and his own body is moving toward his opponent's when it lands.

This blind instinct to hit and to hit hard when he is stung makes Palzer dangerous at all times. He showed it against Wells when, beaten within an ace of a knockout, he staggered about and tried his best to swing blow for blow. He knocked Kaufman out in the same way, swinging an uppercut when Kaufman ducked. It don't think that Palzer realized what blow he had sent across when Kaufman fell.

It's "Even Money, Take Your Pick" in Betting on Today's Big Battle

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 1.

AL PALZER, called "The Cave Man," and Luther McCarty, the cow puncher, but recently a puncher of men, will fight a 20-round bout at Vernon this afternoon. Palzer will enter the ring weighing about 225 pounds and McCarty 208.

There is no preference in the betting, it being "even money and take your pick."

McCarty is in perfect physical condition to all appearances and he and his manager declare that there is nothing lacking that could make him any better.

Palzer might be in better trim, probably, but Manager O'Rourke says that the big Dutchman is "fit to put up the greatest battle of his career." Many fans, however, say Palzer is too big.

"I have seen McCarty fight on several occasions," said Palzer. "I believe I am the better man and that I will win by a knockout inside of ten rounds."

"The battle with Palzer means so much to me," said McCarty, "that every blow I land will carry with it my full strength. I should win inside of ten rounds. Fans have said that I did not hit Flynn as hard as I could. There will be no such cry after this bout."

how to box. He has come along very fast and reports from Los Angeles say that in the fight with Flynn he showed unexpected cleverness. He handled himself like a veteran.

Men Are Strong Contrasts.

Personally, Palzer and McCarty offer the greatest possible contrasts. Palzer in training is surly, ill-tempered, short-spoken. He seems to carry a grouch because he is forced to train. Jeffries was like that. In training Jeff was the surliest man in the world. He carried that scowl of his right to the ringside, but when the fight began he seemed to shift around and enjoy it. Palzer takes on fat when he is not training. It's hard work to get it off every time he fights, and he doesn't like the work. Once in the ring he forgets all about everything except that he is there to fight.

McCarty is a high-spirited, smiling, jovial fellow in the training camp, a born optimist, always sure that he'll win and not at all inclined to worry about it. He enters the ring with a smile and he smiles all the time while fighting. The muscles of his face pull into a smile even when he is hit. He can't look serious or strain his features into a scowl. If he ever becomes champion he'll be a popular one. If Palzer gains the title he'll be popular, too, because he looks the part of a champion. He's an ideal fighter in appearance.

WATER WAGON CONTRACT GOES IN EFFECT TODAY

CHICAGO, Jan. 1.—According to a law recently laid down by President Murphy of the Chicago National League Club, the baseball players of his organization are on the "water wagon" today and hereafter during the 1913 season.

Murphy's edict precipitated heated words from Frank Chance, the late manager, who claimed that his players lost no games on account of too frequent tippling. Manager Evers, who succeeds Chance, says the orders of the president must be obeyed. It was understood that the order was to go into effect at the beginning of t[illegible]

M'GRAW MAY RUIN 3 AMBITIONS BY HIRING THE DUKE

Leader of Giants Thinks Bresnahan Still Greatest of Catching Assets.

By W. J. O'Connor.

Messrs. Dreyfuss, Herrmann and Murphy, unfortunate folks who own National League clubs, each predicts a pennant for his team if he can line up Roger Bresnahan.

Now wouldn't it be funny if Roger Patrick pulled the unexpected and signed with Johnny McGraw? As funny as a funeral for the above-mentioned triumvirate, but nevertheless funny.

Several months ago, when the Cardinals were making their second swing around the National League circuit, Bresnahan and McGraw chanced [illegible] together after a boxing show at Madison Square Garden. The party adjourned to a restaurant for a light lunch and the eternal question of baseball came up. At that time the Giants were suffering a rather severe slump. They looked wobbly. McGraw was a bit worried because he knew Pittsburg [illegible] prove a dangerous factor in a drive. Someone asked McGraw [illegible] ailed his team.

Wished He Owned Ros.

"If I had that fellow over there," Little Napoleon, pointing to Bresnahan, "I wouldn't worry about this year's race."

McGraw later paid Chief Meyers a glowing compliment, but he reiterated that if he had Bresnahan behind the bat he'd win the title hands down. That's what Jawn J. thinks of the Duke. And it may come to pass that McGraw, fearing that Roger's presence in Pittsburg next season may throw the balance of power to Piratetown, may yet hire the Duke.

McGraw is boss of the New York ranch. If he elects to hire R[illegible] $10,000 a season he'll do it. There no interference from Mrs. Brush Hempstead, because McGraw wi[illegible] no meddling from those unfit to a ball club. So it is far from able that Roger yet may land i[illegible] am. If he does, the race is ove[illegible] it starts.

SUCH IS LIFE

(A tactful lady warned her son of etiquette breaches by saying: "My book says 'eat with your fork'", or "My book says 'take small mouthfulls'." One day her son was in a hurry. When she came to the table he was using both hands to stuff in the food. "My book," he mumbled, "says 'eat like a pig'.")

Katherine's Kindness.

KATHERINE is two and one-half years old. Her father came home one afternoon, after working three days and three nights at high pressure, with almost no sleep. He lay down with the feeling that he did not want to wake up for a week. Half an hour later, from the depths of his dreams, he heard a small, clear voice: "Father!"

The sleeper stirred and turned his head on the pillow.

"Father! father!"

He stirred again and moaned.

"Father! father!"

He struggled and resisted and floundered, and finally raised his eyelids like a man lifting heavy weights. He saw Katherine smiling divinely beside his couch.

"Father! father!"

"What is it, daughter?"

"Father, are you having a nice nap?"—Youth's Companion.

SOME DAY (MAYBE)

In making New Year resolutions be careful to add a clause: PROVIDED I AM NOT A QUITTER

Same Effect.

"I WISH I belonged to a golf club."

"Oh, it isn't necessary."

"Why so."

"Just walk ten miles or so over hills and ditches and through bushes, and every 20 or 30 yards give the pavement or a tree stump a hard whack with your stick and mutter something between your teeth."

Wise Geese.

"GEESE are supposed to be symbolic of all that is foolish."

"Well, go on."

"But you never see an old gander hoard a million kernels of corn and then go around trying to mate with a gosling."—Kansas City Journal.

Ah, How True!

"GOETHE says," remarked young Scribbler, "that 'poets must suffer before they can write.'"

"While we," sadly returned the editor, p...shing the button for the "bouncer," "must suffer afterward."

STORIES ST. LOUISANS TELL

A NEW YEAR CALL.

JUDGE THOMAS C. HENNINGS says he was awakened this morning by the continued ringing of his telephone bell.

"Hello," he said very sleepily.

"Hello," responded the caller. "I beg pardon for disturbing you, but is this 1913?"

"No, it isn't," said the Judge sharply, "this is 253," giving his telephone number.

"I would suggest," said the caller, "that before making your finding final you look at the calendar. You'll find that ... is really 1913." And—

Not What She Thought.

THE woman came cautiously up to the librarian in the big library and asked in low tones if she could get a book about David's Harum.

"Oh, yes," said the librarian, 'we have a number of copies of 'David Harem.'"

"Huah," whispered the ...quirer, 'it," "not so loud."—Ladies' Home Journal.

No Example.

"WHO is that poor fellow who just begged a quarter from you?"

"Oh, that was the chap who wrote 'The Battle of Life and How to Win

Economy.

"IT is so easy to save when you know how!" she exclaimed. "Oh, so easy! Do I wish to save $25? Very well. I go downtown and find something I would like that costs $25, and then I don't buy it. Nothing could be simpler."

She did not deny, however, that her method involved a sacrifice.

"But if the sacrifice is too painful," she went on to explain, "I go and find something my husband would like that costs $35 and don't buy that."—Puck.

Helped Him.

"SWEETHEART," said the new, young husband, "I've a confession to make. You married me, you know, because I saved you from drowning. Er, dearest, I deceived you. The water was only waist deep."

"Don't grieve, darling," answered the new, young wife. "I knew it all the while—I had my feet on the bottom all the time."

Spoke Too Hastily.

"NOW, Judge," said Bildad, "I wish you would expedite this case as much as you can. I am in a great hurry"——

"Sure," said the Justice. "Lemme see—I gotta do some hayin' this afternoon; and thar's a taown meetin' tomorrer that I cal-late'll last all day; an' Thursday I gotta go over to Blabb's Corner to an auction sale—I guess we'll git raound to you about Tuesday of next week, onless ye'll save time by pleadin' guilty."

"Oh, well—all right," retorted Bildad. "I'm guilty. What's the penalty?"

"Waal, raound here we're makin' an example o' speeders, mister," said the Judge. "Ten days in the county jail."—Harper's Weekly.

No Doubt.

"WHAT makes you feel so miserable?"

"I'm trying to follow this magazine's advice on 'How to Keep Happy.'"
